Relations between the European Union and Egypt after 2011 Anna Potyrala,,Beata Przybylska-Maszner,Sebastian

Wojciechowski,2015-08-14 This publication is unique not only on a national but also international scale It concerns the subject of the European Union s relations with Egypt after 2011 including the earlier period which is a highly topical issue and a very difficult one to analyse and explain It is the outcome of a research grant titled The European Union towards the Transformation Processes in Egypt after 2011 The authors largely belong to a small group of experts on North Africa and the Middle East including Egypt They are familiar with the literature on the subject from around the world and EU legislation A significant strength of this project concerns the fieldwork carried out on site in Egypt literature documents interviews and observation as well as direct contacts with European Union officials Employment and Economic Performance Jonathan Michie,John Grieve Smith,1997 With the end of the post war boom in the early 1970s the world economy has experienced large scale unemployment From an assumption that the unemployment problem had been solved and that full employment could be maintained through demand management techniques we now live in an entirely different world Any suggestion of a return to full employment is met with questions of whether such a thing is possible whether it would not lead to inflation or to excessive trade union power or in the case of individual economies to unsustainable balance of payment deficits The contributors to this volume ask whether full employment policies would be affordable Would they lead to yawning fiscal deficits which would in the end require a U turn in policy with unemployment reappearing This well informed and original contribution to current policy debate faces up to these questions and considers what would be involved in a move to much lower levels of unemployment
