The Exploits of Brigadier Gerard Arthur Conan Doyle, 1896 You do very well my friends to treat me with some little reverence for in honouring me you are honouring both France and yourselves. It is not merely an old grey moustached officer whom you see eating his omelette or draining his glass but it is a fragment of history. In me you see one of the last of those wonderful men the men who were veterans when they were yet boys who learned to use a sword earlier than a razor and who during a hundred battles had never once let the enemy see the colour of their knapsacks. For twenty years we were teaching Europe how to fight and even when they had learned their lesson it was only the thermometer and never the bayonet which could break the Grand Army down. Berlin, Naples, Vienna, Madrid, Lisbon, Moscow we stabled our horses in them all. Yes my friends I say again that you do well to send your children to me with flowers for these ears have heard the trumpet calls of France and these eyes have seen her standards in lands where they may never be seen again. Even now when I doze in my arm chair I can see those great warriors stream before me the green jacketed chasseurs the giant cuirassiers Poniatowsky's lancers the white mantled dragoons the nodding bearskins of the horse grenadiers. And then there comes the thick low rattle of the drums and through wreaths of dust and smoke I see the line of high bonnets the row of brown faces the swing and toss of the long red plumes amid the sloping lines of steel.
