The American Design Adventure, 1940-1975 Arthur J. Pulos, 1988 The American Design Adventure continues the fascinating and detailed examination of industrial design begun by Arthur Pulos in American Design Ethic The first volume discussed and illustrated the objects and artifacts the major designers and schools of design from Colonial times to the 1940s This second splendidly illustrated volume carries the story into the heroic era of American industrial design from the 1940s to the 1970s These were the decades of American industrial design's dominance when special exhibitions and world fairs made design a subject of national pride Big business realized the influence that trademarks packaging and corporate identity programs could have on their bottom line and the world of fashion created a consumer demand for name brands and well designed products Industrial design flourished under the capable hands of Raymond Loewy and Charles Eames while corporations like IBM RCA Herman Miller and Knoll were sponsors of the great American design adventure The extraordinary collection of illustrations that Pulos has assembled documents all of these important design trends while evoking the nostalgia of the 50s and 60s when Pop and Rock held sway Pulos probes all aspects of industrial designers and their work in education and private corporations in professional organizations and governmental agencies He also covers prefabricated housing graphics manufactured products from the exotic to the pragmatic and public systems from the sociopolitical to the economic

Where Am I Eating? An Adventure Through the Global Food Economy Kelsey Timmerman, 2013-04-08 Bridges the gap between global farmers and fishermen and American consumers America now imports twice as much food as it did a decade ago What does this increased reliance on imported food mean for the people around the globe who produce our food Kelsey Timmerman set out on a global quest to meet the farmers and fisherman who grow and catch our food and also worked alongside them loading lobster boats in Nicaragua splitting cocoa beans with a machete in Ivory Coast and hauling tomatoes in Ohio Where Am I Eating tells fascinating stories of the farmers and fishermen around the world who produce the food we eat explaining what their lives are like and how our habits affect them This book shows how what we eat affects the lives of the people who produce our food Through compelling stories explores the global food economy including workers rights the global food crisis fair trade and immigration Author Kelsey Timmerman has spoken at close to 100 schools around the globe about his first book Where Am I Wearing A Global Tour of the Countries Factories and People That Make Our Clothes He has been featured in the Financial Times and has discussed social issues on NPR s Talk of the Nation and Fox News Radio Where Am I Eating does not argue for or against the globalization of food but personalizes it by observing the hope and opportunity and sometimes the lack thereof which the global food economy gives to the world s poorest producers
