Sophy Xiii The Journal Of Inspired Writing:

The Birth of Novalis Novalis, Friedrich von Hardenberg, 2012-02-01 Friedrich von Hardenberg who later became known as the poet Novalis kept a journal between April and July 1797 that captured his moods thoughts and observations following the death of his fifteen year old fianc e Sophie von K hn and his dearly loved younger brother Erasmus The journal s short day to day entries allow a frank and candid glimpse into the inner life of the maturing poet and are complemented by selections from Hardenberg s letters Taken together and read in conjunction with the fragments written before during and shortly after this period of time the journal and letters shed light on a process of self discovery during which Hardenberg became convinced of his poetic vocation and acknowledged this conviction in an act of self christening as the poet Novalis

The Presbyterian review and religious journal ,1846 Mere Bagatelles: Women's Diaries from Ireland, 1760-1810 Amy Prendergast, 2024-09-13 Honorable Mention in the ACIS Robert Rhodes Prize for Books on Literature 2024 An Open Access edition of this book will be available on publication on the Liverpool University Press website and the OAPEN library Engaging with previously overlooked diaries by women in Ireland written between 1760 and 1810 this book opens new avenues concerning authorship and female agency transforming our understanding of women s contributions to both literature and culture The result of extensive archival research across multiple international archives this book presents an entirely new corpus that demonstrates the creativity and literary capabilities of women in this period The surviving diaries showcase these women s engagement with a form that allowed them to explore their subjectivity and to experiment with the presentation of self This book demonstrates how these bagatelles should be treated as literary works that were shaped by and in turn influenced wider cultures of reading and writing underlining the generic fluidity at play The diary form forces a dismantling of the neat binaries of public and private of imaginative and non imaginative prose writing complicating our understandings of each The content of these diaries prompts a re evaluation of the very contours of Irish writing and what we consider as literature while allowing us to rediscover the importance of manuscripts to our explorations of literary culture

Visual Culture and the Forensic David Houston Jones,2022-03-10 David Houston Jones builds a bridge between practices conventionally understood as forensic such as crime scene investigation and the broader field of activity which the forensic now designates for example in performance and installation art as well as photography Contemporary work in these areas responds both to forensic evidence including crime scene photography and to some of the assumptions underpinning its consumption It asks how we look and in whose name foregrounding and scrutinising the enduring presence of voyeurism in visual media and instituting new forms of ethical engagement Such work responds to the object oriented culture associated with the forensic and offers a reassessment of the relationship of human voice and material evidence It displays an enduring debt to the discursive model of testimony which has so far been insufficiently recognised and which forms the basis for a new ethical understanding of the forensic Jones s analysis brings this methodology to bear upon a strand of contemporary visual activity that has the power to significantly redefine our understandings of the production analysis and deployment of evidence Artists examined include Forensic Architecture Simon Norfolk Melanie Pullen Angela Strassheim John Gerrard Julian Charri re Trevor Paglen Laura Poitras and Sophie Ristelhueber The book will be of interest to scholars working in art history visual culture literary studies modern languages photography and critical theory

The New York Times Index ,1926 Congregational Communion Francis J. Bremer,1994 Puritan studies is one of the most heavily researched areas of scholarship in both England and the United States In this in depth exploration of the relationship between Puritans in England and New England Francis J Bremer challenges the view that the colonists turned away from English Puritans in the 1640s Rather he convincingly demonstrates that the two communities retained a complex symbiotic connection a communion throughout the seventeenth century and that the clergy on both sides of the Atlantic saw themselves as closely linked in their spiritual mission Focusing on the interaction between social experience and the shaping of belief Bremer thoroughly analyzes how Puritan clergymen of a congregational persuasion came together in a godly communion and examines how that communion sustained them in times of trouble and physical dispersal He explains the social forces that led to the articulation of early Congregationalism and details the significance of trans Atlantic religious exchanges through correspondence associations publications and other devices Bremer traces the first generation Puritans from their formative years at Cambridge University through the creation of a network of clerical friendships through the flight to Holland and to New England to the death of Oliver Cromwell and the beginnings of division within Congregationalism This thought provoking volume makes a solid contribution to Puritan studies and offers a basis for further discussions of the trans Atlantic aspects of the Congregational community

The nineteenth century witnessed an upsurge of interest in the region across Europe and North America in media ranging from literary fiction to the illustrated periodical and from visual arts to architecture This rise of regionalism has often been linked to nationalism and nation building However depictions of the region circulated across borders or interacted with transnational cultural repertoires of the local These often overlooked transnational aspects are the focus of this volume which considers cultural representations of the region during the long nineteenth century in its variety of dimensions across all expressive media This collection consistently draws out the border crossing dynamics through which the very perception of regions is generated and maintained Contributions by established and emerging scholars all rise to the challenge of contextualizing representations of specific regions in transnational networks of exchange The volume is resolutely interdisciplinary encompassing various literary genres as well as music visual arts and world fairs It will ensure that the region is in the best possible sense all over the place
