W. Frantz,1934     Travel and Experience in Early Modern English Literature M. Ord,2016-04-30 This study considers how a range of prose texts register and help to shape the early modern cultural debate between theoretical and experiential forms of knowledge as centered on the subject of travel     Revolution and the Word : The Rise of the Novel in America Cathy N. Davidson Professor of English Duke University,1987-02-19 Revolution and the Word offers a unique perspective on the origins of American fiction looking not only at the early novels themselves but at the people who produced them sold them and read them It shows how in the aftermath of the American Revolution the novel found a special place among the least privileged citizens of the new republic As Cathy N Davidson explains early American novels most of them now long forgotten were a primary means by which those who bought and read them especially women and the lower classes moved into the higher levels of literacy required by a democracy This very fact Davidson shows also made these people less amenable to the control of the gentry who naturally enough derided fiction as a potentially subversive genre Combining rigorous historical methods with the newest insights of literacy theory Davidson brilliantly reconstructs the complex interplay of politics ideology economics and other social forces that governed the way novels were written published distributed and understood Davidson also shows in almost tactile detail how many Americans lived during the Constitutional era She depicts the life of the traveling book peddler the harsh lot of the printer the shortcomings of early American schools the ambiguous politics of novelists like Brackenridge and Tyler and the lost lives of ordinary women like Tabitha Tenney and Patty Rogers Drawing on a vast body of material the novels themselves as well as reviews inscriptions in cherished books letters and diaries and many other records Davidson presents the genesis of American literature in its fullest possible context

Movement and Belonging Carol E. Leon,2009 The uncertainties and newness that surround us today prompt radical questions about ourselves and our relationship with the external world How do and can we belong to the places and spaces of today Movement and Belonging Lines Places and Spaces of Travel describes current realities and suggests ways in which you can define yourself in an ever changing world Using the travel writings of V S Naipaul Michael Ondaatje Patrick White and D H Lawrence Movement and Belonging demonstrates that authentic travel embracing changing boundaries and cultures enables you to create sites of belonging where you can find your sense of self     Catalog of Printed Books of the Folger Shakespeare Library, Washington, D.C. Folger Shakespeare Library,1970     American Book Publishing Record Cumulative, 1950-1977 R.R.
