Coping with the Death of a Child Darin D. Schiffman,2019-06-19

Coping with the Death of a Child shows clinicians how to integrate various therapeutic modalities and clinical approaches to grief therapy into one comprehensive model linked to positive change. This integrated model shows mental health professionals how to offer practical and emotional support to the bereaved using descriptions of treatments, care protocols, and guidelines. Through this approach, practitioners can foster interpersonal support and growth among families even when grieving styles and timing differ between individuals. Clinicians and the families they treat will come away from the book with tools for recognizing distorted and pathogenic exchanges between family members for valuing the emotional elements of their individual experiences and for shifting toward solution-focused activities. Dying, Death, and Bereavement Inge Corless, RN, PhD, FAAN, Inge B. Corless, Barbara B. Germino, Mary A. Pittman, DrPH, 2006-06-02. Based on practice knowledge of the authors rather than on research, this book may be particularly useful for those professionals who have not had hands-on experience with people at the last stages of dying. It is a resource that can be referred to time and again by those who care for people facing the final stage of life.

Someone Died Now What? a Youth Pastor's Survival Guide

Tom Morris, 2010-06-25. So you are a Youth Pastor or Youth Worker and someone dies. It could be the grandparent or parent of a youth in your ministry. Or it could be a youth in your youth who is killed in a terrible accident, or it could be a student in a local high school or middle school. How will you respond to help the families, the individuals in your youth group, or the youth in the local high school? Could it be that God has put you in the situation for a divine purpose? I think that is why you are reading this now. I don't believe in accidents. I'd venture to guess that there is a reason behind why you are reading this even now. This is not the typical book for a youth pastor. But this book is about real-life problems that happen everyday and in some way affects many of the youth in your group and could be a way to come to know others deeply in a matter of hours. A Physician's Guide to Coping with Death and Dying Jan Swanson, Alan Cooper, 2005. Education about death and dying has been almost ignored in medical schools. Recently, however, it has become increasingly obvious that the preferences of dying patients are being ignored, leaving many patients to die lonely, scared, and in pain. There is a growing realization that physicians can help dying patients achieve a more peaceful death and increased recognition that good end-of-life care is not just the province of specialized hospice physicians or nurses. In A Physician's Guide to Coping with Death and Dying, Jan Swanson and Alan Cooper, a physician and a clinical psychologist with many years of experience, offer insights to help medical students, residents, physicians, nurses, and others become more aware of the different stages in the dying process and learn how to communicate more effectively with patients and their families. They also discuss the ways physicians and other caregivers can learn to reduce their own stress levels and avoid the risk of burnout, allowing them to achieve balance in their lives and be more effective professionally. The authors use case examples and thought-provoking exercises to provide a

Palliative Care for Care Homes Christine Reddall, 2009 Care home workers increasingly work with people nearing the end of their lives including people with medically complex conditions However many do not have a medical background and find that practical advice on how to address these people's very specific needs is scarce In this book Christine Reddall draws on almost four decades of nursing experience to create a clear and easy to read handbook primarily for workers caring for the dying in care homes but which will also be of interest to family members caring for relatives with life threatening conditions This is a resource book to provide information on palliative care It is designed primarily to help carers who work in care homes of all categories To my knowledge this is the first book written solely for carers working in care homes that addresses the issues of caring for someone with palliative care needs However people with whom I have spoken to about this book or who have read parts of it have all said that it would also be a helpful resource to non professional family carers who care for a family member in their own home The style of this book is designed to be readable by all levels of carers and I have endeavoured to keep the language and text as non medical as possible I have tried to put myself in the shoes of carers especially those without medical training and think of what they want to know when caring for someone with a life threatening illness Christine Reddall in her Preface
