The Fall Of South Vietnam Statements By Vietnamese Military And Civilian Leaders:

The fall of South Vietnam Stephen T. Hosmer, Brian Michael Jenkins, Konrad Kellen, 1978 This report summarizes extensive oral and written statements by 27 former high ranking South Vietnamese military officers and civilians on their perceptions of the causes of the collapse of South Vietnam in 1975 The causes cited were many and interwoven shortcomings in South Vietnam's political and military leadership planning and organization but all were tied to what the interviewees saw as the overarching cause for the collapse the American role in Vietnam They viewed the withdrawal of American troops the loss of U S manpower and the reduction of aid after the Paris Agreements as making defeat inevitable Other factors included irresolution and reversals of strategy by Vietnamese leaders and failure of commanders to stay with their units in battle Finally some of the respondents saw the events as part of the fundamental struggle between East and West in which Communism in their view had the advantage Most seem to agree on one point that the U S South Vietnamese interaction was largely a failure

A Study of Strategic Lessons Learned in Vietnam: South Vietnam, 1981

Why South Vietnam Fell Anthony James Joes, 2014-10-16 Between 1954 and 1963 President Ngo Dinh Diem against great odds but with U S assistance built a functioning South Vietnamese state But gravely misled by American journalists in Saigon the U S embassy in league with second tier members of the State Department urged certain South Vietnamese generals to stage a coup against Diem resulting in his brutal murder Despite the instability after Diem's murder the South Vietnamese Army performed well during the 1968 Tet Offensive and the 1972 Easter Offensive In proportion to population South Vietnamese Army losses were much greater than American losses Nevertheless the American media ignored South Vietnamese sacrifices and completely misrepresented the consequences of the Tet Offensive The disastrous peace agreement the U S forced on the South Vietnamese in 1973 made continuing American support vital But Congress began to slash aid to South Vietnam so that its soldiers had to fight on with dwindling supplies of fuel ammunition and medicine Under these circumstances the South Vietnamese attempted to regroup their army into the provinces around Saigon an effort that ended in disaster The final chapter reflects on the meaning of the conflict and the tragedy that abandonment by Washington and conquest by Hanoi brought upon the South Vietnamese people An Appendix presents a strategy for preserving a South Vietnamese state with the commitment of a relatively small number of U S forces
