well being Advances in the Psychology of Human Intelligence Robert J. Sternberg, 2014-01-14 Volume five continues to mark the significant advances made in the psychology of human intelligence problem solving and thinking abilities Papers contributed by leaders in the field reflect a diversity of perspectives and approaches to the human intelligence Subjects discussed include genetic and environmental contributions to information processing abilities development of children s conceptions of intelligence skill acquisition as a bridge between intelligence and motivation information processing abilities underlying intelligence costs of expertise and their relation to intelligence the nature of abstract thought The Growth of the Mind Kurt Koffka, 1927 Children's Social Consciousness and the Development of Social Responsibility

Sheldon Berman, 1997-04-17 This book breaks new ground in our understanding of the development of social consciousness and social responsibility in young people and the educational practices that promote this development Berman shows that children s awareness of the social and political world emerges far earlier and their social and moral abilities are more advanced than we thought Drawing on the research literature in such fields as moral development citizenship education political socialization prosocial development and psychosocial development Berman provides educators and researchers with the developmental understandings and instructional strategies necessary to enable students to become active caring and responsible members of our social and political community The Course Reflection Project Nicole Schonemann, Emily Metzgar, Andrew Libby, 2015-05-01 Service learning is entering a post initiatory phase At tertiary institutions of all types and sizes service learning programs are common and service learning requirements for graduation are growing in popularity Taken together alongside continued faculty interest in effective teaching these factors have raised the visibility and popularity of service learning Now the greater need in service learning is not to prove the need for or efficacy of service learning but to turn the focus squarely back on practice Following established best practice is not enough instructors also need to reflect on how this fits within the specific context and application of each unique course and service learning partnership While there are many excellent resources that detail best practice and showcase exemplary service learning courses faculty reflection and course revision often goes unmentioned In response to the lack of attention on the role of reflection and course revision we convened groups of faculty from a variety of disciplines to reflect deeply on their courses paying specific attention to obstacles and challenges These conversations were converted to articles for this edited collection each chapter representing the process of reflection and revision and serving as a guide to develop effective practice in varied curricular contexts This text contributes to the body of literature on service learning in a unique and practical manner Faculty teaching or interested in teaching service learning classes would benefit from this text as well as university administrators and community service directors involved in service learning at a programmatic and institutional level This book should be marketed to faculty teaching disciplinary service learning classes and service learning pedagogy classes and administrative offices involved in service learning This could be a supplementary text for graduate level pedagogy courses

Higher education institutional libraries would benefit from this text as well as the national and state campus compact offices
