Addison and others]. Spectator The, 1776 Fatal Attractions, Abjection, and the Self in Literature from the Restoration to the Romantics Laura Alexander, 2019-03-18 This book examines Julia Kristeva's theory of abjection in several works by early British writers from the Restoration to the Romantic era This period saw an increased emphasis on understanding the self Poems with anxious speakers or narratives featuring characters with considerable psychic pressures emerged as writers responded to ideas on consciousness by natural philosophers The pursuit of self knowledge also reached greater imaginative depths inspiring new artistic movements including sensibility with its attention to expressions of the suffering self and the Gothic a mode of art that examines the self's deepest fears Romantic writers theorized about artistic genius creating a cult of the self that has never left us Kristeva offers a more complete psychoanalytic vocabulary for understanding the self's unconscious motivations in literature written during this period and this book provides readers interested in early British literature philosophy and literary theory with a constructive perspective for thinking about literary depictions of the self in crisis The Spectator [by J. Addison and others]; with notes, and a general index Spectator The, 1811 The Correspondence of Horace Walpole, with George Montagu, Esq., [and Others].
