Shades of Decolonial Voices in Linguistics

Sinfree Makoni, Cristine Severo, Ashraf Abdelhay, Anna Kaiper-Marquez, Višnja Miložićić, 2023-09-12 This book argues that Linguistics in common with other disciplines such as Anthropology and Sociology has been shaped by colonization It outlines how linguistic practices may be decolonized and the challenges which such decolonization poses to linguists working in diverse areas of Linguistics It concludes that decolonization in Linguistics is an ongoing process with no definite end point and cannot be completely successful until universities and societies are decolonized too In keeping with the subject matter the book prioritizes discussion debate and the collaborative creative production of knowledge over individual authorship Further it mingles the voices of established authors from a variety of disciplines with audience comment and dialogue to produce a challenging and inspiring text that represents an important step along the path it attempts to map out

The Lingua Franca

Natalie Operstein, 2021-11-17 Whose name is hidden behind the anonymity of the key publication on Mediterranean Lingua Franca What linguistic reality does the label Lingua Franca conceal These and related questions are explored in this new book on an enduringly important topic The book presents a typologically informed analysis of Mediterranean Lingua Franca as documented in the Dictionnaire de la langue franque ou petit mauresque which provides an important historical snapshot of contact induced language change Based on a close study of the Dictionnaire in its historical and linguistic context the book proposes hypotheses concerning its models authorship and publication history and examines the place of the Dictionnaire s Lingua Franca in the structural typological space between Romance languages on the one hand and pidgins on the other It refines our understanding of the typology of contact outcomes while at the same time opening unexpected new avenues for both linguistic and historical research Linguistics Encyclopedia Kirsten Malmkjaer, 2003-09-01 Alphabetically arranged encyclopedia contains 80 main articles covering 150 sub areas of the discipline discussing their development methodology terminology theoretical issues and controversies from syntax to speech therapy Linguistics and Biblical Hebrew Walter Ray Bodine, 1992 The essays in this volume arose out of the Society of Biblical Literature section on linguistics and Biblical Hebrew and have been selected to provide a summary and statement of the state of the question with regard to a number of areas of investigation The sixteen articles are organized into sections on phonology morphology syntax semantics discourse analysis historical comparative linguistics and graphemics Cambridge and the Torres Strait Anita Herle, Sandra Rouse, 1998-09-24 Centenary volume of the Torres Strait Expedition suggesting new ways of looking at its work Substrata Versus Universals in Creole Genesis Pieter Muysken, Norval Smith, 1986-01-01 Two of the most prominent hypotheses about why the structures of the Creole languages of the Atlantic and the Pacific differ are the universalist and the substrate hypotheses The universalist hypothesis claims essentially that the particular grammatical properties of Creole languages directly reflect universal aspects of the human language capacity and thus Creole genesis involves then the stripping away of the accretions of language history The substrate hypothesis claims on the other hand that creole genesis results from the confrontation of two systems the native languages of the colonized groups and the dominant colonial language and that the native language leaves strong traces in the resulting Creole The contributions of this ground breaking collection present new and historical research on the old debate of substrata versus universals in Creole languages Progression and Regression in Language Kenneth Hyldenstam, Ake Viberg, 1993 First published in 1994 this crosslinguistic collection looks at changes and developments in language involving gain or loss in structural complexity or utility The dynamics of these processes of progression and regression are examined at the societal and the individual level and the two are compared In the former the focus is on the social and cultural forces that influence groups of speakers to create new languages or abandon old ones In the latter the acquisition and attrition of both first and second languages are considered Questions raised include Can parallel structural patterning be observed in whole languages and in the individual s version of a language Is there parallelism between progression and regression Can changes occurring in progression and regression be interpreted in a typological framework These are addressed from sociological neuropsychological and linguistic perspectives Language Contact in a Postcolonial Setting Eric A. Anchimbe, 2012-10-01 This timely book brings together research on the features and evolution of Cameroon English and Cameroon Pidgin English approached from a variety of innovative multilingual frameworks that focus on the emergence of mother tongue speakers The authors illustrate how language and population contact history colonialism multilingualism translation and indigenization have contributed to shaping the norms of postcolonial Englishes and Pidgins Employing naturalistic data the volume provides a new fascinating perspective that better situates and supplements existing research in the fields of African Englishes and Creolistics It is particularly of key interest to sociolinguists contact linguists Africanists Anglicists creolists and historical linguists Principles of Historical Linguistics Hans Henrich Hock, 2021-10-25 Historical linguistic theory and practice consist of a large number of chronological layers that have been accepted in the course of time and have acquired a permanence of their own These range from neogrammarian conceptualizations of sound change analogy and borrowing to prosodic lexical morphological and syntactic change and to present day views on rule change and the effects of language contact To get a full grasp of the principles of historical linguistics it is therefore necessary to understand the nature of each of these layers This book is a major revision and reorganization of the earlier editions and adds entirely new chapters on morphological change and lexical change as well as a detailed discussion of linguistic palaeontology and ideological responses to the findings of historical linguistics to this landmark publication Vernacular Universals and Language Contacts Markku Filppula, Juhani Klemola, Heli Paulasto, 2009-01-13 Non standard varieties of English all over the world share a striking number of grammatical features which are hard to explain because of the widely differing sociolinguistic and historical backgrounds of these varieties Contributors to this book discuss two major factors behind the shared features vernacular universals and contact induced change
