Human Evolution Bernard Grant Campbell,1985 Human Evolution presents a complete and integrated description of the evolution of Homo sapiens by synthesizing the major findings of modern research and theory The book treats evolution as the concomitant development of the main behavioral and functional complexes of the genus homo Analyzing each complex in terms of its changing function Human Evolution continually stresses how the separate complexes evolved interdependently in man The increasing cerebral complexity and the remarkable plasticity of the developing human structure is paralleled by and interrelated with the rapidly evolving social complexes These developments are placed within the context of contemporary evolutionary and genetic theory modern analyses of the fossil record and contemporary primatology and comparative morphology The Evolution of Man Gustav Heinrich Ralph Koenigswald,1976 Evaluates important fossil evidence of prehistoric humanity The Evolution of Man David Pilbeam,1970 The Lowell Lectures on the Ascent of Man Henry Drummond,1898 The Evolution of Man Wilhelm Bölsche,1913 The Evolution of Man David R. American Catholic Quarterly Review ,1910 Human Evolution Charles River Charles River Editors,2018-04-08 Includes pictures Includes online resources and a bibliography for further reading We must however acknowledge that man with all his noble qualities still bears in his bodily frame the indelible stamp of his lowly origin Charles Darwin Ever since the human mind developed the capacity for thought people have pondered not just the meaning of life but the genesis of the world the universe and all the natural marvels and precious forms of life within it To this day all of these intricate subjects continue to be matters of great contention and they are often best encapsulated in the debate between creationism and evolution On the one hand are those who are adamant that it was God or some other supreme being that designed and crafted every detail of the universe as evidenced by the plethora of creation myths from various creeds and traditions Among one of the most well known etiological tales is the classic story of the Christian God who constructed the world in 6 days and man and woman out of clay and man s rib respectively This is a concept that many still cling to today approximately 38% of Americans believed in creationism in 2017 as reported by a Gallup Poll Then there are the more obscure narratives such as the Japanese creation myth which recounts how the god and goddess Izanagi and Izanami birthed from elements mixed together with one germ of life shaped the Japanese islands with some mud and the aid of a sacred staff The Mayans preached about Tepeu the maker of all things and Gucumatz the feathered spirit who produced the world with nothing but their thoughts and placed on Earth the first quartet of humans fashioned out of white and yellow corn On the other hand are those who believe or as they would say accept evolution and scientific processes as facts As enthralling as such creation myths may be insist critics of creationism who campaign for their retirement there is not a sound shred of logic behind these time worn tales Renowned theoretical physicist Stephen Hawking arguably one of the most brilliant people to have ever lived stated Before we understand science it is natural to believe that God created the universe But now science offers a more convincing explanation His sentiments are echoed by famous atheist and evolutionary biologist Richard Dawkins in The Selfish Gene Today the theory of evolution is about as much open to doubt as the theory that the earth goes round the sun Some claim that evolution is just a theory as if it were merely an opinion esteemed astrophysicist Neil deGrasse Tyson another leading proponent of evolution adds The theory of evolution like the theory of gravity is a scientific fact Evolution really happened Accepting our kinship with all life on Earth is not only solid science In my view it is also a soaring spiritual experience Most scientists believe the evolution of humans has a history as long as life itself Anatomically modern humans and all other life that has existed on the planet first came about from the single celled microorganisms that emerged approximately 4 billion years ago Through the processes of mutation and natural selection all forms of life developed and this continuous lineage of life makes it difficult to say precisely when one species completely separates from another In other words scientists still debate when a human became a human rather than the ancestor species that came before In order to understand the history of human evolution an understanding of the mechanisms that essentially created modern humans needs to be understood These processes are natural selection and evolution Human Evolution The History of the Evolution and Natural Selection Processes that Gave Rise to Modern Humans examines how humans evolved from microorganisms and the evolutionary theories that came about in the 19th century to explain it all
