State And Law In Eastern Asia:

State and Law in Eastern Asia Leslie H. Palmier, 1996 Presents five articles by experts on the laws of five Asian states Japan China Indonesia Thailand and Singapore examining the extent of arbitrary government Law and Society in East Asia Christoph Antons, 2017-07-05 The massive and complex process of change in East Asia over recent decades has brought about a transformation in the nature of law and legal institutions in the region Whilst the process of change has to some degree mimicked western models of law and legal change there have been significant differences in approach due to the different social foundations of East Asian societies The more obvious of these has been the variety of ways in which rule of law ideas have been adopted in many East Asian countries where the role of the state is more dominant when compared with Western models This volume brings together a selection of the most important writings on East Asia of researchers in recent years and shows the broad range of questions which researchers have been addressing about the effect of law reform and legal change in societies dominated by traditional values and political forces and at a time of massive economic change

Law and the State in Traditional East Asia Brian E. McKnight, 1987 Law of the Sea in South East Asia Donald R Rothwell, David Letts, 2019-07-19 The United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea LOSC represents one of the most successful examples of multilateral treaty making in the modern era The convention has 168 States parties and most non signatory States recognise nearly all of its key provisions as binding under customary international law including the United States Nevertheless there remain significant differences in interpretation and implementation of the LOSC among States as well as calls on occasion for its amendment This book analyses the impact influence and ongoing role of the LOSC in South East Asia one of the most dynamic maritime regions in the world Maritime security is a critical issue within the region and it is separately assessed in light of the LOSC and contemporary challenges such as environmental security and climate change Likewise navigational rights and freedoms are a major issue and they are evaluated through the LOSC and regional state practice especially in the South China Sea Special attention is given to the role of navies and non state actors Furthermore the book looks at regional resource disputes which have a long history These disputes have the potential to increase into the future as economic interests and concerns over food security intensify Effective LNG and fisheries resource management is therefore a critical issue for the region and unless resolved could become the focal point for significant maritime disputes These dynamics within the region all require extensive exploration in order to gauge the effectiveness of LOSC dispute resolution mechanisms The Law of the Sea in South East Asia fills a gap in the existing literature by bringing together a holistic picture of contemporary maritime issues affecting the region in a single volume It will appeal to academic libraries government officials think tanks and scholars from law strategic studies and international relations disciplines East Asia's Renewed Respect for the Rule of Law in the 21st Century Setsuo Miyazawa, Weidong Ji, Hiroshi Fukurai, Kay-Wah Chan, Matthias Vanhullebusch, 2015-03-20 This volume showcases the most recent research on the future of the legal and judicial landscape in East Asia and its renewed respect for the rule of law in the 21st century The book features research on emerging judicial stratifications in the legal profession war crimes and their legacies in the post colonial era citizens participation in the justice system gender law legal culture and profession as well as environmental justice Democracy in East Asia Larry Diamond, Marc F. Plattner, Yun-han Chu, 2013-02-15 Democratization scholars believe that the next regional wave of transitions to democracy may unfold in East and Southeast Asia In their introduction to the 1998 edition of Democracy in East Asia Larry Diamond and Marc F Plattner predicted that East Asia with its remarkable diversity of political regimes economies and religions would likely be the most critical arena in the global struggle for democracy a prediction that has proven prescient Although the recent political upheavals in the Middle East have understandably grabbed the world s attention there is reason to doubt whether the overthrow of some authoritarian regimes there will lead to the establishment of stable democracies any time soon On the other hand East Asia the world s most populous and economically dynamic region already boasts several consolidated democracies and provides a fascinating laboratory for studies of both authoritarian resilience and the prospects for democratization This updated volume which features contributions by distinguished scholars in East Asian studies will be welcomed by instructors and students in the field particularly as U S foreign policy is in the process of undertaking a pivot toward Asia Democracy in East Asia offers a comprehensive treatment of the political landscape in both Northeast and Southeast Asia including discussions of China Japan South Korea Taiwan Indonesia the Philippines Malaysia Singapore Thailand Cambodia Laos Vietnam and Burma Myanmar Contributors Larry Diamond Marc F Plattner Francis Fukuyama Minxin Pei Yun han Chu Hyug Baeg Im Thitinan Pongsudhirak Dan Slater Martin Gainsborough Don Emmerson Edward Aspinall Mark Thompson Benjamin Reilly Joseph Wong Chong Min Park Yu tzung Chang Civil Society and the State in Democratic East Asia David Chiavacci, Simona Grano, Julia Obinger, 2025-10-01 Civil Society and the State in Democratic East Asia Between Entanglement and Contention in Post High Growth focuses on the new and diversifying interactions between civil society and the state in contemporary East Asia by including cases of entanglement and contention in the three fully consolidated democracies in the area Japan South Korea and Taiwan The contributions to this book argue that all three countries have reached a new era of post high growth and mature democracy leading to new social anxieties and increasing normative diversity which have direct repercussions on the relationship between the state and civil society It introduces a comparative perspective in identifying and discussing similarities and differences in East Asia based on in depth case studies in the fields of environmental issues national identities as well as neoliberalism and social inclusion that go beyond the classic dichotomy of state vs liberal civil society The United States and East Asia Robert G. Sutter, 2003 This book assesses the key causes and trends in recent security economic and political dynamics in East Asia to point to the opportunities and challenges they pose for U S policy today The New Era in East Asia United States. Congress. House. Committee on Foreign Affairs. Subcommittee on Asian and Pacific Affairs, 1981 Politics in East Asia's Demand for Energy, Minerals and Food Kate Barclay, Graeme Smith, 2016-02-05 China Japan and South Korea's international relations are shaped by the fact that all three countries are significant importers of resources This book brings together work on specific aspects of the politics of resources for each of these countries regionally and internationally There are some similarities in the approaches taken by all these three For example their development assistance shares a focus on infrastructure building and reluctance to purposefully influence domestic politics However there are also significant differences due in large part to the individual nature of the states as international actors China has significant domestic supplies of resources while Japan and Korea are net importers China's size also marks it out as different as does its state socialist history and continuing authoritarian state One of the key issues to understanding contemporary resource politics in Northeast Asia is that Western dominance of the world order is currently declining In some cases Northeast Asian approaches to resources are seen as being mercantilist In other cases Northeast Asian powers are seen as replacing Western powers in exploiting resource rich developing countries This book gives readers an informed view of this very important issue in contemporary international relations This book was published as a special issue of Asian Studies Review World Bank East Asia and Pacific Economic Update April 2016 World Bank, 2016-04-11 In the past 6 months developing East Asia and Pacific has faced a challenging external environment but growth has generally remained resilient Over the next 3 years growth is expected to ease modestly China will continue its gradual shift to a more sustainable growth path Some economies will be affected by low commodity prices and weaker external demand This outlook is subject to elevated risks Countries should prioritize monetary and fiscal policies that reduce their exposure to risks and strengthen market confidence In China there is a need to reduce leverage In several countries action is required to enhance transparency strengthen accountability and redefine the role of the state Efforts to reduce barriers to trade should be redoubled with a particular focus on non tariff measures and regulatory barriers including to trade in services The region must increase its readiness to benefit from the digital revolution and in particular develop the essential analog complements to digital technologies Monthly Catalog of United States Government Publications, 1988

Small States and Hegemonic Competition in Southeast Asia Chih-Mao Tang, 2018-03-20 In the last few decades Southeast Asia has become generally more peaceful and more prosperous with progress in economic development regional cooperation and integration ASEAN in particular plays a leading role within and beyond the region in promoting multilateral cooperation in both security and economic matters All these developments progress amid increasing hegemonic competition between the US and China for regional dominance in the Asia Pacific region According to the realist viewpoint of international politics Southeast Asian states can do nothing but choose sides at the expense of international political autonomy in order to maintain their national interests Tang argues however that in fact there exists an opportunity for Southeast Asian states to simultaneously reinforce their military security economic development and international political autonomy in face of the US China hegemonic competition Drawing on the ideas of power transition theory and recent works of capitalist peace Tang argues that small states can exploit the competition between great powers to make economic gains and ensure security while maintaining their autonomy He outlines the necessity of cooperation among these small states and of economic liberalization for the effectiveness of this reinforcing dynamics applying policy and econometric analyses to a wide range of qualitative and quantitative data
