Savitsky, Thomas E. Lacher, Jr., 1998-04-28 Tropical habitats may contain more than a third of the world's plant and animal species Costa Rica alone is home to one of the highest levels of biodiversity per unit area in the world and stands at center stage in worldwide conservation efforts Within such regions the use of state of the art digital mapping technologies sophisticated techniques that are relatively inexpensive and accessible represents the future of conservation planning and policy These methods which employ satellites to obtain visual data on landscapes allow environmental scientists to monitor encroachment on indigenous territories trace park boundaries through unmarked wilderness and identify wildlife habitats in regions where humans have limited access Focusing on the rich biodiversity of Costa Rica the contributors demonstrate the use of geographic information systems GIS to enhance conservation efforts They give an overview of the spatial nature of conservation and management and the current status of digital mapping in Costa Rica a review of the basic principles behind digital mapping technologies a series of case studies using these technologies at a variety of scales and for a range of conservation and management activities and the results of the Costa Rican gap analysis project GIS Methodologies for Developing Conservation Strategies provides powerful tools for those involved in decision making about the natural environment particularly in developing nations like Costa Rica where such technologies have not yet been widely adopted For specialists in such areas as geography conservation biology and wildlife and natural resource management the combination of conceptual background and case examples make the book a crucial addition to the literature Internet Links for Science Education Karen C. Cohen, 2012-12-06 Science teachers come in many varieties but they share a common goal to nurture learners Over the past decade we have learned a great deal about how to do this effectively Of all this new and some not so new knowledge what strikes me as most important is that learning occurs best within a context Still as obvious as that may seem it is relatively rare in our high school science classrooms The problem of course is that it is not easy to create a learning experience with hands on relevance to the science under discussion Science teachers in addition to not having the time for the most part do not have the expertise or readily available resources The solution lies in finding ways to bring scientists into the teaching learning equation Scientists teamed with teachers and their students represent a very real and rich opportunity to involve students in real science as practiced Imagine a research book that gives examples of honest science research experiences for science oriented students What's more imagine a book that includes examples where students are collaborating with scientists from all over the world on research projects in person or via the Internet Internet Links for Science Education does just that It explores the role of the Internet and technology in working student scientist partnerships The New Walford Guide to Reference

Resources Ray Lester, 2005 The New Walford highlights the best resources to use when undertaking a search for accurate and relevant information saving you precious time and effort For those looking for a selective and evaluative reference resource that really delivers on its promise look no further In addition to print sources The New Walford naturally covers an extensive range of e reference sources such as digital databanks digital reference services electronic journal collections meta search engines networked information services open archives resource discovery services and websites of premier organizations in both the public and private sectors But rather than supplying a list of all available known resources as a web search engine might The New Walford subject specialists have carefully selected and evaluated available resources to provide a definitive list of the most appropriate and useful With an emphasis on quality and sustainability the subject specialists have been careful to assess the differing ways that information is framed and communicated in different subject areas As a result the resource evaluations in each subject area are prefaced by an introductory overview of the structure of the relevant literature This ensures that The New Walford is clear easy to use and intuitive Publisher National Geographic Complete Birds of the World National Geographic Society (U.S.), 2009 Offers detailed information on every bird family in the world including their physical characteristics behaviors conservation status taxonomy and photographs of individual species
