

Project Initiation Document

Project Definition

To begin, you need to define the project, providing a brief overview of its:

- Purpose: The reason for initiating the project, such as fill a niche, launch a new product, etc.
- Goals & Objectives: List goals (long-term outcomes) and objectives (short-term outcomes)
- Success Criteria: How project will be measured to determine if it's successful
- Assumptions & Constraints: List assumptions (assumed true) and constraints (proven true)

Business Case

A business case is a document that justifies the existence of the project. It will be more thorough than the above project definition, which is more an overview, and define the project's benefits, cost and risks and provide a reason to go forward with the project. (Attach document)

Project Scope

Project scope is a document that defines the goals, constraints, workflow management, strategies, tasks and deliverables of the project. Again, while some of this is touched upon in the project definition section, this is a more comprehensive document of all the work to be done in the project, which will help manage the workload better. (Attach document)

Project Budget

The project budget is an estimate of all the costs related to completing the project. Estimate each phase separately and look back at historical data for the cost of similar projects to have a more accurate forecast. Experts and the project team should also be consulted. (Attach document)

Project Timeline

Here you'll want to create the project schedule, including all tasks, deadlines and milestones, and map them on a timeline. (Attach document)
