The International Of The Forest:

Assessing the International Forest Regime Richard Tarasofsky, 1999 Provides an assessment of the international forest regime in response to calls from many quarters including the UN Intergovernmental Forum on Forests IFF and the World Commission on Forests and Sustainable Development as well as several NGOs The focus is mainly on action taken by countries at the global level in the framework of legally binding instruments and institutions It builds on previous analyses of the international forest regime by looking beyond the legal mandates to begin exploring the actual performance of the components against their mandates With the Intergovernmental Panel on Forests IPF Proposals for Action as the point for departure the effectiveness and impact of individual legal instruments and global institutions are analyzed as is the potential for synergy between them Launching Model Forest Indonesia as Part of the International Model Forest Network Indonesia. Departemen Kehutanan, 2006-01-01 Catalogue of the Indian Exhibit at the International Forestry Exhibition, Edinburgh J. Michael (Colonel.), 1884 International Collaboration on Forest Genetic Resources--the Role of Europe Jozef Turok, 2000 Regime Interaction in International Forest Law Yilly Vanessa Pacheco Restrepo, 2023-10-20 Despite covering almost a third of the globe forests do not enjoy the protection of a singular global legal convention Instead International Forest Law is a complex ecosystem in its own right This book sets out to examine this complexity by analyzing forest related Multilateral Environmental Agreements MEAs and how the decisions of the various corresponding Conferences of the Parties COPs may promote regime interaction in this field of law Through an in depth analysis of more than 60 decisions and resolutions of such COPs Yilly Pacheco discusses how secondary law making activity in forest related MEAs may be strengthened and used to fill the gaps in International Forest Law International Forest Policy by International and Transnational Organizations Sarah L. Burns, 2016 In recent decades globalization and internationalization led to an increase in the number of international regimes attempting to influence national behaviour over many different issues By using the case of the international forest regime complex this thesis seeks to evaluate how an international organization such as the World Bank and private institutions of forest certification influence domestic forest policy The cases of Argentina and Armenia were selected as examples of developing countries open to international influences with weak forest sectors that went through a recent administrative restructuring In so doing this dissertation seeks to answer how do international and transnational organizations influence domestic forest policies The results show that the influence of the World Bank in Argentina and Armenia pushed the forest sector towards deregulation state bureaucracies play an important role in the implementation of transnational regimes at the national level the political system of federal countries provides multiple institutional access points for policy change that international and transnational regimes try to use in order to influence the domestic level consequently changing the power balance of the domestic networks Forests in International Law Anja Eikermann, 2015-02-05 This book investigates the potential need for an international convention on forests and establishes a multifunctional concept of forests as a cornerstone for international forest regulation Accordingly it examines a variety of international instruments pertaining directly or indirectly to forests and explores their entangled fragmented nature While contending that the lack of consistency in international law impedes the development of a stand alone international forest convention at the same time it argues that the lessons learned from fragmentation as well as from the history of forest discourse on the international level open up new options for the regulation of forests in international law based on new concepts of coordination and cooperation

Climate Change, Cattle, and the International Legal Order Rebecca Williams, 2024-05-30 Livestock food systems need to be rapidly rethought to tackle the global climate crisis This book examines how climate concerns for the livestock sector are governed in international law and addresses the sector's inclusion or lack thereof across the international governance of climate change agriculture forests and trade The book provides a wide ranging analysis of legal regimes at the international level that affect emissions from cattle and where relevant livestock more broadly On this basis tensions interactions and common themes for livestock emissions mitigation across the international climate change forestry agricultural and agri trade regime are identified This showcases where productive synergies and damaging tensions have emerged across the cross cutting nature of livestock governance enabling goals of fairer and more effective emissions mitigation for the sector to be achieved In addition to addressing issues such as food security and public health the book highlights the problem of affluence in reducing cattle emissions from meat consumption This key insight is significant in terms of tackling future livestock emissions trajectories particularly in relation to securing climate justice within the agricultural sector and securing equitable and effective livestock solutions The book is a key text for all those with an interest in the legal governance of climate change and agriculture adding to the timely debate on the future sustainability of the global diet and the relationship between affluence and climate change

International Forest Policies in Indonesia: International Influences, Power Changes and Domestic Responses in REDD+, One Map and Forest Certification Politics Agung Wibowo, 2016-01-07 The political contention that considers forests to be mere economic assets to achieve state welfare has slowly changed into a more conservative view since the Ninth World Forestry Congress in Mexico in 1985 rightly acknowledged that there has been severe tropical forest destruction and environmental deterioration around the globe
