

Arab Art as seen Through The Monuments of Cairo from the Seventh Century to the Eighteenth, by EMILE PRISSE D'AVENNES, translated by J. I. Erythraspis. Originally published by A. Morel, Paris 1877. Le Sycomore, Paris; Al Saqi Books, London 1983. $150.

When this text first appeared in 1877, in French, it seemed an architectural counterpart to Edward Lane's An Account of the Manners and Customs of the Modern Egyptians (1860). Emile Prisse d'Avennes, educated at the Ecole d'arts et métiers, Châlons, worked in Egypt in various capacities: as an engineer of hydraulic projects at the time of Muhammad 'Ali, as a teacher of engineering in a military academy in Upper Egypt and, ultimately, as an Egyptologist excavating in Karnak. In addition, he traveled widely in the Middle East and fought in the Greek War of Independence, before ultimately settling in Egypt and converting to Islam.

This text is essentially a document of its own time. That is, it is a powerful purveyor of nineteenth-century Orientalist views of Arabs, Egyptians, architecture, and history. Readers seeking a more critical approach to the architectural history of Egypt should consult Creswell and more recent works. This book, however, is still useful to those who need to see (selected aspects of) early nineteenth-century Cairo. In numerous carefully executed drawings, many finished in rich color, some of the public buildings, elements of domestic architecture and furnishings, facades, and window grilles are detailed for the reader.

In addition, the plates of this text (from the original edition and now made more available through this reissue) will be documents useful to contemporary historians of Moorish architecture in Europe and the United States. It was the drawings in this text, and in others like it from the nineteenth century, that served as models for turn-of-the-century Western architects busy creating the mansion monuments to satisfy individual Western taste for the Orient.
