ICE Design and Construct Conditions of Contract Institution of Civil Engineers (Great Britain), 1992 Developed from the ICE Conditions of contract 6th edition by the CCSJC these new conditions are designed to meet a widely felt need in the construction industry for use over the whole range of design and construct situations

Ice Conditions of Contract for Archaeological Investigation, 2004 An Archaeological Investigation is usually undertaken to provide information In response to a proposed development which could cause damage to archaeological remains As part of the planning process within the framework of appropriate national planning policy guidance notes and or development plan policy As part of an Environmental Impact Assessment Inconnection with management plans and mitigation strategies of private local and national or international bodies Outside the planning process e g infrastructure projects ecclesiastical developemtn coastal erosion agriculture forestry and countryside management works by public utilities and statutory undertakers Where the Investigation finds Archaeological Remains they are recorded analysed and interpreted and the findings disseminated as appropriate These Conditions of Contract the first of its kind regulate the business relationship between the Employer and the specialist Archaeological Contractor during the course of an Archaeological Investigation The Contract retains a pattern traditional in civil engineering contracts with an investigation commissioned by an Employer Landowners developers etc designed or approved by an Engineer and carried out by a specialist Archaeological Contractor only that the term Consultant is used instead of Engineer Its advantages include Providing parties to the Contract with an advanced warning of circumstances that may give rise to additional costs or delay or which may warrant a significant change to the scope of the Investigation Enabling the minimisation of additional cost and or delay as well as potential for dispute Minimising the incidence of disputes and resolving those that may arise in a speedy and non confrontational manner On that basis that many archaeological contracts will fall within the provisions of Part 2 of the Housing Grants Construction and Regeneration Act 1996 this Contract has been drafted to comply with the legislation with the intention that the various Statutory Schemes for Construction Contracts should not apply Arbitration Practice in Construction Contracts Douglas S. Stephenson, 2008-04-30 Since it came into force on 31 January 1997 the Arbitration Act 1996 has generally been welcomed by users and practitioners in the construction industry It has fulfilled expectations that it would provide a user friendly and practical basis of resolving disputes arising from construction contracts in a fair expeditious and economical way In doing so it has generated a modest volume of case law that has demonstrated the excellence of the Act's provisions and its drafting Since the Fourth Edition of this book appeared in 1997 the Housing Grants Construction and Regeneration Act 1996 with its Scheme for Construction Contracts Regulations 1998 have come into force as have the Civil Procedure Rules 1998 both of which affect the resolution of disputes arising from construction contracts Case law has arisen from the Construction Act and from the House of Lords judgment in the Beaufort Developments case overturning the much criticised judgment of the Court of Appeal in Crouch In this Fifth Edition of an established text the author deals with each stage of an arbitration explaining in practical terms the procedures to be adopted in avoiding disputes and in dealing with them efficiently when they do arise It features over 20 specimen arbitration documents and includes the full text of the Act It also covers several important developments in case law affecting construction arbitrations and refers to the introduction and case law arising from adjudication under the Housing Grants Construction and Regeneration Act 1996
