The Industrial Archaeology Of Farming In England And Wales:

The Industrial Archaeology of Farming in England and Wales Nigel Harvey,1980 Britain 1740 - 1950 Richard Lawton,Colin Pooley,2021-12-02 Originally published in 1992 this book provides students with a well illustrated clearly written text which offers a coherent overview of Britain s development from a pre modern to a modern economy and society The key processes that have shaped the geography of modern Britain are rooted in the significant demographic economic technological and social transitions of the early eighteenth century the impact of which was not fully diffused through the nation until the mid 20th Century This country wide survey examines the nature of this transformation The material in the book is accessible because the book is clearly structured into 3 phases 1740 to the 1830s the 1830s to the 1890s and the 1890s to 1950 For each period the principal aspects of change in population industry the countryside and urban life are examined and regional examples given to support the analysis The Archaeology of Buildings Richard K. Morriss,2000

The study of buildings whether out of sheer interest or to assist planning decisions is a branch of archaeology which is distinct from both archaeology and architectural history yet allied to both This book begins by providing background information about studying the basic materials used in a building s construction such as stone brick or timber framing The author explains how various clues left by the builders can add to the historic background and use of the site and explains how all these strands of information can be woven together to produce a detailed understanding of how any building has developed over the years Over 100 illustrations and two invaluable appendices typical examples of buildings and an illustrated glossary of terms complete a handbook that has long been needed by professionals and amateurs alike An Environmental History of Wildlife in England 1650 - 1950 Tom Williamson,2013-12-05 Choice Outstanding Academic Title 2014 While few detailed surveys of fauna or flora exist in England from the period before the nineteenth century it is possible to combine the evidence of historical sources ranging from game books diaries churchwardens accounts and even folk songs and our wider knowledge of past land use and landscape with contemporary analyses made by modern natural scientists in order to model the situation at various times and places in the more remote past This timely volume encompasses both rural and urban environments from 1650 to the mid twentieth century drawing on a wide variety of social historical and ecological sources It examines the impact of social and economic organisation on the English landscape biodiversity the agricultural revolution landed estates the coming of large scale industry and the growth of towns and suburbs It also develops an original perspective on the complexity and ambiguity of man animal relationships in this post medieval period The industrial archeology of farming in England and Wales ,1980 The Agrarian History of England and Wales Edward John T. Collins,Joan Thirsk,2000 The unifying theme of this volume is the changing role of the countryside in national life and the impact upon it of the social and economic forces unleashed by industrialisation and the growth of towns Industrial Archaeology Marilyn Palmer,2012-10-12 Industrial Archaeology uses the techniques of mainstream archaeological excavation analysis and interpretation to present an enlightening picture of industrial society Technology and heritage have until recently been the focal points of study in industrialization Industrial Archaeology sets out a coherent methodology for the discipline which expands on and extends beyond the purely functional analysis of industrial landscapes structures and artefacts to a broader consideration of their cultural meaning and value The authors examine for example the social context of industrialization including the effect of new means of production on working patterns diet and health History of Technology Volume 9 Norman Smith,2016-09-30 The technical problems confronting different societies and periods and the measures taken to solve them form the concern of this annual collection of essays Volumes contain technical articles ranging widely in subject time and region as well as general papers on the history of technology In addition to dealing with the history of technical discovery and change History of Technology also explores the relations of technology to other aspects of life social cultural and economic and shows how technological development has shaped and been shaped by the society in which it occurred The Protection and Conservation of Water Resources Hadrian F. Cook,2017-06-26 This book is about water in Britain and in the world It is about water resources their conservation protection of water quality for human consumption and aquatic ecosystems Since the publication of the first edition in 1998 major political and regulatory changes have taken place this book provides a clear and comprehensive update of conservation and water resource management issues in the UK over the past two decades and in an expansion of its original UK perspective now includes examples of global best practice The UK s 2003 adoption of the EU Water Framework Directive has had enormous implications for the conservation and management of our water resources In 2016 with the UK s decision to leave the EU the governance scene is entering upon an unpredictable future regarding its major water resource policies The Protection and Conservation of Water Resources Second edition provides a clear and comprehensive update of conservation and water resource management issues Chapter 1 deals with sustainability and water policy outlines the issues and challenges and asks what is integrated water management Chapter 2 reviews water availability and sufficiency in Britain while Chapter 3 explores the dynamic between institutions and legislative framework Chapter 4 introduces the catchment approach and chapters 5 and 6 explore the issues of sustaining bulk supply and the imperatives of climate change Chapter 7 looks at the contemporary background to water quality issues and Chapter 8 provides case studies of catchment problems both urban and rural Chapter 9 describes solutions in land use change including technical fixes and their sustainability Chapter 10 is concerned with emerging governance arrangements and Chapter 11 takes a global view looking at successful examples around the world to find positive lessons from Europe north America and Australia Landscape History and Rural Society in Southern England Eric L. Jones,2021-03-08 This book applies an economic and environmental perspective to the history of landscape and the rural economy highlighting their inter connections through specific case studies After explaining how the author made his discoveries and when they started it analyses relations between documentary and landscape evidence It is based on exceptional first hand observation of a dozen sites and close consideration of topics in the ecological and economic history of southern England They range from reclaiming chalk down land occupying low lying heaths and reconstructing parkland to wool stapling and the manufacture of gunstocks for the African slave trade Additional themes include the tension between ecology and institutions in decisions about the location of economic activity the decay of communal farming ahead of enclosure and other interesting puzzles in rural economic history This book offers an original approach to questions in economic history through its synthesis of different types of evidence It will be of interest to a diverse range of readers because it addresses how economic change was registered in the landscape and how that change was influenced by landscape It is a book with highly original features contributing simultaneously to economic agricultural environmental and landscape history A History of Farm Buildings in England and Wales Charles Nigel Harvey,1984 Understanding the Workplace: A Research Framework for Industrial Archaeology in Britain: 2005 David Gwyn,2017-12-02 This volume was first delivered at a conference organised by the Association for Industrial Archaeology in Nottingham in June 2004 and formerly constituted a special issue of Industrial Archaeology Review The papers have the explicit intention of formulating a research framework for industrial archaeology in the 21st century and demonstrating how far industrial archaeology is now a fully recognised element of mainstream archaeology The Landscape of Britain Michael Reed,2002-11-01 The Landscape of Britain has a uniquely rich historical diversity In this book explains the processes at work in the evolution of the landscape pointing out examples of surviving evidence from the past The landscape of late twentieth century Britain is the end product of some ten thousand years of human effort directed not only towards satisfying basic physical needs for food and shelter but also towards expressing profound spiritual and intellectual aspirations whether by means of burial mounds or churches schools or monasteries The author shows how each generation makes its own individual contribution without being able entirely to erase those of its predecessors however remote or distant in time Historical Britain Eric Stuart

Wood,1997 This book examines the origins evolution and progress of Britain s villages towns landscape climate and geology farming methods industries parks gardens and churches The Morville Hours Katherine Swift,2011-05-01 Nobody writes about the garden like the English And few in England have ever been as eloquent or astute as Katherine Swift Some twenty years ago she and her husband leased a house in the town of Morville in Shropshire whose garden became her passion

Driven to uncover its history she takes readers on a journey through time back to the forces that shaped the garden linking the stories of those who lived in the house and tended the same red soil with her family s own Spanning thousands of years The Morville Hours is also deeply personal a journey through the seasons but also one of self exploration of finding one s place in the world and putting down roots The Morville Hours takes the form of the medieval Books of Hours recalling the monastic past of the house Each chapter is named after one of the Hours of the Divine Office and summons vividly to life an hour of the day or night from the crunch of grass underfoot at midnight on a frosty New Year s Eve to a perfumed May Day morning when the whole world seems sixteen again from the enervating heat of a midsummer noon to the bloom of blue black damsons picked on a golden September afternoon Together they describe the arc of the gardening year and the arc of life

A Bibliography of British History, 1914-1989 Keith Robbins, American Historical Association, Royal Historical Society (Great Britain), 1996 Containing over 25 000 entries this unique volume will be absolutely indispensable for all those with an interest in Britain in the twentieth century Accessibly arranged by theme with helpful introductions to each chapter a huge range of topics is covered There is a comprehensive index

Rethinking Ancient Woodland Gerry Barnes, Tom Williamson, 2015-10-01 Ancient woodland is a term widely used in England for long established semi natural woods shaped by centuries of traditional management Such woods are often assumed to provide a direct link with the natural vegetation of England as this existed before the virgin forests were fragmented by the arrival of farming This groundbreaking study questions many of these assumptions Drawing on more than a decade of research in Norfolk the authors emphasize the essentially unnatural character of ancient woods

Interpreting the Landscape Michael Aston, 2002-09-11 Most places in Britain have had a local history written about them Up until this century these histories have addressed more parochial issues such as the life of the manor rather than explaining the features and changes in the landscape in a factual manner Much of what is visible today in Britain's landscape is the result of a chain of social and natural processes and can be interpreted through fieldwork as well as from old maps and documents Michael Aston uses a wide range of source material to study the complex and dynamic history of the countryside illustrating his points with aerial photographs maps plans and charts He shows how to understand the surviving remains as well as offering his own explanations for how our landscape has evolved

Traditional Buildings in the Oxford Region John Steane, James Ayres, 2013-11-29 The pivotal position of the Oxford region in the geological and therefore building history of England is of fundamental importance to the study of traditional construction Oxford occupies a central position on the ancient route between Northampton and Southampton and on the east west road between London The West Country Wales and Ireland For this reason unusually for vernacular architecture the buildings of the region were subject to a wide range of influences This book the fruit of twenty years research provides an account of vernacular architecture in the Oxford region from Anglo Saxon times to the 19th century It begins with a discussion of methods and procedures followed by a description of building materials stone brick slate and thatch This serves as an introduction to the heart of the book eleven chapters dealing with surveys of cruck buildings manorial and moated sites town houses with particular emphasis on Abingdon and houses in the countryside from farmhouses to cottages There are then chapters on fire hazards public houses and public buildings Several appendices are devoted to wall paintings ferramenta apotropaic marks carpentry details secrets under the floorboards fireplaces staircases and windows The book is richly and profusely illustrated with over 500 illustrations photographs maps and a particular strength a large number of drawings of architectural details and sketch perspectives
