Jung and the Postmodern Christopher Hauke, 2013-10-23 What has Jung to do with the Postmodern Chris Hauke's lively and provocative book puts the case that Jung's psychology constitutes a critique of modernity that brings it in line with many aspects of the postmodern critique of contemporary culture The metaphor he uses is one in which we are gazing through a Jungian transparency or filter being held up against the postmodern while from the other side we are also able to look through a transparency or filter of the postmodern to gaze at Jung From either direction there will be a new and surprising vision Setting Jung against a range of postmodern thinkers Hauke recontextualizes Jung's thought as a response to modernity placing it sometimes in parallel and sometimes in contrast to various postmodern discourses Including chapters on themes such as meaning knowledge and power the contribution of architectural criticism to the postmodern debate Nietzsche's perspective theory of affect and Jung's complex theory representation and symbolization constructivism and pluralism this is a book which will find a ready audience in academy and profession alike

The Future of Training in Psychotherapy and Counselling John Rowan, 2014-02-25. The Future of Training in Psychotherapy and Counselling presents a revealing and stimulating account of the current state of training that demonstrates how training will have to adapt if it is to successfully meet the needs and challenges of the future. In an attempt to look afresh at the whole question of training, John Rowan proposes that there are three ways of doing therapy, and any examination of training has to consider each of these: the instrumental, where the main emphasis is on treating the client or patient; the authentic way, where the main emphasis is on meeting the client or patient; the transpersonal way, where main emphasis is on linking with the client in a more personal way. Each approach makes different assumptions about the self, about the relationship, and about the level of consciousness involved in doing therapy. By challenging the basic precepts of traditional training, John Rowan encourages the reader to reconsider subjects including the difference between counselling and psychotherapy, culture and ethics, the origins of disturbance in clients, and child development. The Future of Training in Psychotherapy and Counselling provides a much needed new perspective that will compel all psychotherapists and counsellors to take a closer look at training in the field.

Counseling Theories and Case Conceptualization Stephen V. Flynn, Joshua J. Castleberry, 2023-10-30. One of the aspects of this textbook that I most appreciate is that Dr. Flynn embraces action as a scholar by integrating the most relevant and impactful theoretical practices tackling developing trends such as telebehavioral health and challenging us as readers to apply complex theoretical constructs from an intersectional, culturally responsive, and social justice paradigm. This is not a reimagining of the traditional counseling theories textbooks from 10 years ago, but rather an act of evolution and engagement captured in the immediate assertion of social justice-oriented theories. Nicole R. Hill, Interim Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs, Professor, Counselor Education, Shippensburg University. Helps future counselors apply key theoretical constructs to real-world scenarios through session transcripts and detailed case conceptualizations. For students enrolled in master's and advanced doctoral programs, this groundbreaking textbook blends theoretical insight and practical application. Woven throughout is a focus on the multiple levels of diversity, intersectionality, and identity that individuals embody and the skills and interventions necessary to produce positive outcomes. The book is distinguished by the inclusion of Voices from the Field: digital video interviews with 12 expert practitioners of leading theories.
