Substance Abusing High Achievers Addiction As An Equal Opportunity Destroyer:

Substance-abusing High Achievers Abraham J. Twerski, 1998 Denial of addiction is the most prominent symptom of individuals who have problems with alcohol and substance abuse Whatever its psychodynamics their denial is reinforced by 1 fear that acknowledgment and treatment might jeopardize their professional status and 2 the misconception that intellectual superiority constitutes a safeguard against loss of control High achievers doctors lawyers business executives clerics nurses professors are particularly vulnerable to such denial Moreover their spouses may share the fear that exposure could jeopardize and even undermine the family's livelihood Some people become high achievers or overachievers in order to compensate for feelings of inadequacy and unworthiness These feelings almost invariably surface in the substance abuser antedating the onset of abuse A particular challenge in treating this population is to address the negative consequences of low self esteem without crippling the impulse to excel Dr Twerski demonstrates that chemical dependency is indeed an equal opportunity destroyer and he illuminates the makeup of high achieving substance abusers as their narratives unfold Addicted individuals will recognize themselves in these pages while providers of human services will discover ways and means to diagnose and intervene

Gender and Addictions Shulamith Lala Ashenberg Straussner, Elizabeth Zelvin, 1997 Recognizing that men and women have different patterns and different needs the book emphasizes the relational model of female psychological development formulated by such theorists as Miller Chodorow and Gilligan which illuminates women's functional focus on connection and relationship as opposed to men's on separation and individuation

Couple and Family Therapy of Addiction Jerome D. Levin, 1977-07-07 This is a comprehensive clinical resource for addiction counselors who want to learn about the psychological components of the problem for individual therapists dynamic cognitive and behavioral who want to understand systems approaches in order to draw on a broader repertoire of useful interventions and for couple and family therapists who want to learn more about the intrapsychic biological and pharmacological aspects of addiction Dr Jerome D Levin takes the reader down the parallel paths of addiction treatment and individual and family therapy until they meet on the bridge of actual clinical practice Practitioner professor prolific author and respected authority in the field Dr Levin uses approaches to the treatment of alcoholism as a model for illustrating how theory research technique and flying by the seat of the professional pants can integrate into a therapeutic style to help substance abusers and their partners and families

On the Moral Right to Get High Rob Lovering, 2025-06-29 Is getting high immoral In this book Rob Lovering defends the claim that it is not More specifically he argues that recreational drug use of which getting high is a token is neither intrinsically nor generally extrinsically immoral In other words he contends that recreational drug use is neither immoral in and of itself nor generally immoral due to an immoral making factor with which it may be contingently linked e g harm Lovering does so by offering two arguments for recreational drug use's ultima facie all things considered moral permissibility and critiquing twenty four arguments for its immorality Meant to be a companion to Lovering's A Moral

Defense of Recreational Drug Use Palgrave Macmillan 2015 which was written for a general audience this book is written for an academic specifically philosophical audience and explores recreational drug use in a deeper more philosophically and empirically rigorous way      A Moral Defense of Recreational Drug Use Rob Lovering, 2015-08-12 Why does American law allow the recreational use of some drugs such as alcohol tobacco and caffeine but not others such as marijuana cocaine and heroin The answer lies not simply in the harm the use of these drugs might cause but in the perceived morality or lack thereof of their recreational use Despite strong rhetoric from moral critics of recreational drug use however it is surprisingly difficult to discern the reasons they have for deeming the recreational use of some drugs morally wrong In this book Rob Lovering lays out and dissects various arguments for the immorality of using marijuana cocaine heroin and other drugs recreationally He contends that by and large these arguments do not succeed Lovering's book represents one of the first works to systematically present analyze and critique arguments for the moral wrongness of recreational drug use Given this as well as the popularity of the morality based defense of the United States drug laws this book is an important and timely contribution to the debate on the recreational use of drugs      Without a Job Who Am I Abraham J Twerski, 2010-02-01 A system of support designed to help us develop and sustain a true sense of self worth when shaken by professional or economic upheaval Millions of people confuse who they are with what they do When faced with the loss of their job home or life savings many struggle not only to keep their head above water financially but also to maintain a healthy positive view of themselves and their value in the world Whether you are out of work or money or are afraid of ending up there Without a Job Who Am I offers a system of support to help you stay motivated and persevere as well as develop and sustain lasting values and a solid sense of identity no matter what your material circumstances happen to be With more than forty years of experience as a psychological medical and spiritual counselor renowned psychiatrist and author Abraham J Twerski M D offers time tested principles and practices for successfully coping with grief hardship and trauma to help us rise personally from professional or financial loss Twerski gives us the tools to stay centered on what really matters by helping us identify what positive self esteem really is and define the personal values needed to sustain it deal with the depression and grief that often follow economic loss examine what worry does for and to us manage the stress caused by negative emotions and find familial and spiritual support Focused on the central question Who am I Twerski uses actionable advice complemented by inspirational stories to guide us in rediscovering our self worth when shaken by economic upheaval      Introduction to Chemical Dependency Counseling Jerome David Levin, Joseph Culkin, Richard S. Perrotto, 2001 Suitable for use by students preparing to take the Certified Alcoholism and Substance Abuse Counselor CASAC exams this text provides an introduction to alcoholism and drug addiction      Primer for Treating Substance Abusers Jerome D. Levin, 1999-06 Is abstinence necessary What is the role of hypnosis What is the pink cloud This encyclopedic primer written in an easy question and answer format contains everything a clinician needs to know about substance abuse and addiction Dr Jerome David Levin outlines the treatment of chemical and other addictions such as compulsive gambling compulsive sexuality and codependency He covers the full complexity of substance abuse diagnosis and treatment with a biopsychosocial approach and multimodal interventions ranging from detoxification and rehabilitation programs to cognitive and behavioral treatments self help groups and individual and family therapy A clear comprehensive book that presents an integrated picture of a complex phenomenon this primer can be profitably read either straight through or as a reference text Psychotherapy of Cocaine Addiction

David Mark,Jeffrey Faude,1997 The widely accepted disease model of addiction overlooks the fact that helping addicts to change their lives is fundamentally an interpersonal and societal act because even the seemingly objective chemical effects of cocaine are inevitably integrated into a larger world of meanings and relationships Addicts are demonized in our society and the consequences of their social alienation profoundly affect not only them but also their therapists and the process of therapy as well Mark and Faude describe an approach to treating cocaine addiction whose centerpiece is learning to develop relationship episodes with the patient concrete narratives of actual events in the patient s life Sharing generous clinical examples they demonstrate how engagement in this mutual activity illuminates and transforms the subjective interpersonal and cultural experience of the cocaine user The British National Bibliography Arthur James Wells,1999 Forthcoming

High-achieving Students and Substance Use Savannah Ey,2021 High school students are at a time of great transition in their lives yearning for greater autonomy and adjusting to new and potentially higher expectations can be difficult More so high schoolers are starting to be exposed to thing such as drugs alcohol and other substances by their peers Specifically high achieving high school students are at risk of academic burnout and may use substances in an attempt to maintain a certain level of academic rigor or to unwind from the stresses they experience on a day to day basis Though there are many substance abuse prevention programs that are used in high schools few target high achievers and their unique circumstances It is imperative that high achieving students have access to a substance abuse prevention program that not only provides social emotional support but provides them with the tools necessary to be successful without the use of substances This graduate project provides a six week psychoeducational group substance abuse prevention curriculum that focuses on skills such as self care coping skills and time management as well as communication skills If high achieving students have access to this information they can implement these healthy and conducive techniques and strategies instead of employing the use of different substances
