Subtropical Fruit Pests Walter Ebeling, 1959 Subtropical Fruit Pests Walter Ebeling, 1959 Subtropical Fruit Pests Thomas Robert Malthus, 1959 Pests of Crops in Warmer Climates and Their Control Dennis S. Hill, 2008-07-16 This is a textbook providing basic data about the crop pests and the damage they inflict throughout the tropics and sub tropics Each major pest is illustrated by either a line drawing or a photograph and sometimes the damage can also be seen A world distribution map is provided for each species Control measures tend to be general rather than very specific Most of the pests are insects and mites but some nematodes molluscs birds and mammals are included Postharvest Biology and Technology of Tropical and Subtropical Fruits Elhadi M. Yahia, 2011-06-30 While products such as bananas pineapples kiwifruit and citrus have long been available to consumers in temperate zones new fruits such as lychee longan carambola and mangosteen are now also entering the market Confirmation of the health benefits of tropical and subtropical fruit may also promote consumption further Tropical and subtropical fruits are particularly vulnerable to postharvest losses and are also transported long distances for sale Therefore maximising their quality postharvest is essential and there have been many recent advances in this area Many tropical fruits are processed further into purees juices and other value added products so quality optimisation of processed products is also important The books cover current state of the art and emerging post harvest and processing technologies Volume 1 contains chapters on particular production stages and issues whereas Volumes 2 3 and 4 contain chapters focused on particular fruit Chapters in Volume 4 review the factors affecting the quality of different tropical and subtropical fruits from mangosteen to white sapote Important issues relevant to each product are discussed including means of maintaining quality and minimising losses postharvest recommended storage and transport conditions and processing methods among other topics With its distinguished editor and international team of contributors Volume 4 of Postharvest biology and technology of tropical and subtropical fruits along with the other volumes in the collection are essential references both for professionals involved in the postharvest handling and processing of tropical and subtropical fruits and for academics and researchers working in the area Along with the other volumes in the collection Volume 4 is an essential reference for professionals involved in the postharvest handling and processing of tropical and subtropical fruits and for academics and researchers working in the area Reviews factors affecting the quality of different tropical and subtropical fruits concentrating on postharvest biology and technology Important issues relevant to each particular fruit are discussed such as postharvest physiology preharvest factors affecting postharvest quality and pests and diseases Handbook of Tropical and Sub-tropical Horticulture Ernest Mortensen, 1968 Pests of Stored Foodstuffs and their Control Dennis S. Hill, 2007-05-08 This book is intended to serve as an introduction to the pests of stored foodstuffs of all types on a worldwide basis and as a broad reference text It is aimed at being complementary to the more detailed and more specific texts that are listed in the References It does presuppose an adequate basic knowledge of entomology and zoology in the user The stored products mentioned in the text are commercial products in the widest sense including all types of plant and animal materials in addition to grain and prepared foodstuffs Storage is viewed very broadly from one day on a shelf to several years in a silo or refrigerated store at 20 C In many publications the produce surveyed has been restricted to stored grains because of their obvious importance to human society and because of the great quantities involved For many different materials of both plant and animal origin there is a shortage of specific information but it is to be hoped that this situation will gradually be rectified It should be clearly understood that any reference to animal pests is made in the strict zoological sense and refers to any members of the Kingdom Animalia There is a regrettable tendency in some circles to use the term animal as being synonymous with mammal a habit to be deplored There is definite emphasis on animal pests in this text but micro organisms are included where relevant Integrated Pest Control in Citrus Groves R.

Cavalloro,2022-01-26 This book is an outcome of the proceedings of the expert s meeting on the protection of citrus groves held in Acireale in 1985 It focuses on the methods and strategies of integrated control taking into account the influence of some phytochemicals on the physiology of the citrus crop Handbook of Pest Management in Organic Farming
