Creating Entrepreneurial Community Colleges Carrie B. Kisker, 2024-08-19 In this book Carrie B Kisker illustrates how community colleges can utilize design thinking to identify and evaluate entrepreneurial opportunities and experiment with the internal changes necessary to optimize outcomes for stakeholders Kisker outlines a process whereby college leaders can empower faculty and staff to think creatively about how to reduce their institution's dependence on state allocations in ways that not only are consistent with the college's mission and values but also provide the greatest likelihood for institutional and student success. The book presents evidence drawn from case studies at four community colleges along with in-depth qualitative interviews with leaders, faculty and staff who have been involved in their institution's entrepreneurial efforts. The featured colleges Maricopa Community Colleges AZ, Tarrant County College TX, North Iowa Area Community College and Valencia College FL all have long histories of engaging in entrepreneurial initiatives. By telling the stories of several influential community college leaders' experiences with entrepreneurship using design thinking as a framework for understanding their successes and failures, Kisker provides a road map for colleges to move beyond their historical pattern of incremental responses to external pressures and instead begin to innovate in a creative mission-oriented way.

Readers are encouraged to consider fundraising an essential component of their future as student affairs professionals. Chapter topics discussed include: The context for development work in student affairs; Getting started in student affairs development; Student affairs and alumni relations; Fundraising for student affairs at comprehensive institutions; Entrepreneurialism in student affairs; the Eckerd College Waterfront Program story; More than an open door: deploying philanthropy to student access and success in American Community Colleges; Suggestions for the path ahead. Student affairs divisions need to find ways to support themselves and move toward self-reliance and self-determination. However, the best of student affairs operations will at the same time be characterized as self-sufficient, carrying their own weight, a goal best accomplished through a commitment to development work and fundraising. This volume aims to help student affairs professionals realize that goal. This is the 130th volume of the Jossey-Bass higher education quarterly report series New Directions for Student Services. An indispensable resource for vice presidents of student affairs, deans of students, student counselors and other student services professionals. New Directions for Student Services offers guidelines and programs for aiding students in their total development: emotional, social, physical and intellectual.
