

The background of the cover is a painting depicting four individuals in professional clothing—two men and two women—gathered around a table, intently studying a large document. The style is somewhat abstract and expressive, with visible brushstrokes. In the upper portion of the image, a city skyline with several buildings is visible under a hazy sky. The overall color palette is dominated by blues, greys, and earthy tones, giving it a serious, academic feel.

Development Coalitions in Working Life Bjørn Gustavsen, Tom Colbjørnsen, Øyvind Pålshaugen, 1998 While the need to utilise knowledge from social research in processes of development in working life is growing there is also a growing recognition of the problems posed by this utilisation As the belief in universal reason and general theory about topics like work organization and leadership has faded research has to find a place as a local development actor As such it is part of broad groups of actors or development coalitions as they are called in this book Each coalition acquires unique characteristics and demands unique contributions from participating researchers At the same time there is still a need for generalisable knowledge since all local processes are linked to global ones Using an ongoing research supported development program in Norwegian working life as the basis this book explores the issues and problems associated with a new role for research as a mediator not between general theory and local application but between local workplace actors and global trends The program in case encompasses a substantial number of enterprises many of them organized in networks and more than 50 researchers organized in seven groups or modules
