The Confessional Poets:

The Confessional Poets Robert Phillips, 1973 Confessional poetry as a genre was first characterized by the critic M L Rosenthal in 1959. It has become a potent force and its practitioners the poetic voices of our time. The poetry is highly subjective, written with frankness and lack of restraint and focuses on the ugliness of life. Its leading practitioners Robert Lowell, Anne Sexton, W D Snodgrass and John Berryman have all been recipients of the highest awards in literature including the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award for Poetry. Robert Phillips, a critic and also a poet, here directs our attention to the genre in the first book on the subject. In addition to the poets noted above, he discusses the work of Theodore Roethke, Sylvia Plath, Stanley Kunitz, Delmore Schwartz and Allen Ginsberg. Especially valuable are the author's definition and historical review of the genre and his use of interviews and personal comments. An appraisal of the genre; his book is also a guide to new avenues open to poets writing today.

The Confessional Poets Robert Phillips, 1970 Some Women Poets of the Sixties Siew Keng Chua, 1981 Confessional Poetry in the Cold War Adam Beardsworth, 2022-02-02 This book explores how confessional poets in the 1950s and 1960s US responded to a Cold War political climate that used the threat of nuclear disaster and communist infiltration as affective tools for the management of public life. In an era that witnessed the state-sanctioned repression of civil liberties, poets such as Robert Lowell, John Berryman, Sylvia Plath, Anne Sexton and Randall Jarrell adopted what has often been considered a politically benign confessional style. Although confessional writers have been criticized for emphasizing private turmoil in an era of public crisis, examining their work in relation to the political and affective environment of the Cold War US demonstrates their unique ability to express dissent while averting surveillance. For these poets, writing the fear and anxiety of life in the bomb's shadow was a form of poetic doublespeak that critiqued the impact of an affective Cold War politics without naming names.

After Confession Kate Sontag, David Graham, 2001-09 Explores how poems have been used as autobiographies throughout time.
