Howells, Reiner Schulze, 2009 In October 2008 the European Commission published the Proposal for a Consumer Rights Directive a proposal that suggests far reaching changes to the core of consumer contract law Four current directives are replaced by a new overarching piece of legislation In doing so full harmonization should for the most part take the place of the minimum standard presently in force in the EU Although a welcomed initiative the extent and possible effects of the Proposal have certainly brought a number of issues to the fore In January 2009 legal experts from universities legal practices and the civil service met at Manchester University to address the issues raised by the Proposal and to address the question of the extent to which the Proposal can indeed contribute to the modernization and harmonization of European consumer contract law This book contains the proceedings of the conference and includes papers that analyze criticize and suggest improvements for the Proposal The Images of the Consumer in EU Law Dorota Leczykiewicz, Stephen Weatherill, 2016-01-28 This book consists of contributions exploring from different perspectives the images of the consumer in EU law The images of the consumer form the foundation for various EU policies more or less directly oriented towards the goal of consumer protection The purpose of the volume is to establish what visions of the consumer there are in different contexts of EU law whether they are consistent and whether EU law's engagement with consumer related considerations is sincere or merely instrumental to the achievement of other goals The chapters discuss how consumers should be protected in EU contract competition free movement and trade mark law They reflect on the limits of the consumer empowerment rationale as the basis for EU consumer policy The chapters look also at the variety of concerns consumers might have including the cost of goods and services access to credit ethical questions of consumption the challenges of excessive choice and the possibility to influence the content of regulatory measures and explore the significance of these issues for the EU's legislative and judicial process The Confident Consumer Sally R. Campbell, 2004-01-01 Information Obligations and Disinformation of Consumers Gert Straetmans, 2019-09-05 This book focuses on recent developments in consumer law specifically addressing mandatory disclosures and the topical problem of information overload. It provides a comparative analysis based on national reports from countries with common law and civil law traditions in Asia, America and Europe and presents the reports in the form of chapters that have been drafted on the basis of a questionnaire and which use the same structure as the questionnaire to allow them to be easily compared. The book starts with an analysis of the basic assumptions underlying the current consumer protection models and examines whether and how consumer models adapt to the new market conditions. The second part addresses the information obligations themselves, first highlighting the differences in the reported countries before narrowing the analysis down to countries with a general pre-contractual information duty, particularly the transparency requirements that often come with such a duty. The next part examines recent developments in the law on food labelling, commercial practices and unfair contract terms in order to identify whether similar traits can be found in European and non-European jurisdictions. The fourth part of the book focuses on specific information obligations in the financial services and e-commerce sectors, discussing the fact that legislators are experimenting with different forms of summary disclosures in these sectors. The final part provides a critical appraisal of the recent developments in consumer information obligations, addressing the question of whether the multiple criticisms from behavioural sciences necessitate abandonment or refinement of current consumer information models in favour of new, more adequate forms of consumer protection and providing suggestions.

Unfair Contract Terms in the Digital Age Gardiner, Caterina, 2022-06-14. Since the introduction of the European Unfair Contract Terms Directive (UCTD), there have been far-reaching developments in the digital landscape which have significantly altered the nature of consumer contracts. This timely book examines the changes that have taken place since the advent of the UCTD and analyses the challenges that they pose for consumers entering online standard form contracts today.

The Yearbook of Consumer Law 2008 Mrs Deborah Parry, Ms Annette Nordhausen, Professor Geraint Howells, Dr Christian Twigg-Flesner, 2013-02-28. The Yearbook of Consumer Law provides a valuable outlet for high quality scholarly work which tracks developments in the consumer law field with a domestic, regional and international dimension. Furthermore, it provides an essential resource for all those academic and practitioner working in the areas of consumer law and policy.

Regulating the Internal Market Niamh Nic Shuibhne, 2006-01-01. The insight given by the book is absolutely indispensable for those who interact with the internal market. It is a goldmine of thought waiting to be discussed, used and put to the test.

Ida Otken Eriksson, European Law Journal. This fascinating book explores the management of the internal market from a legal perspective. While the EU agenda is currently dominated by the processes of Treaty reform, this assessment of both market and constitutional governance evaluates the coherence or otherwise of the project at the very core of European integration. Confronted with a free market nearing completion with a relatively formulaic application of internal market law, the book portrays how this is mirrored in a growing tendency to hand the market back to the Member States and increasingly to authorities and bodies both public and private therein. We see too, however, an internal market framework that strains to cope with a series of challenges both internal and external to the EU itself The approach of the contributors is twofold on one hand they reflect thematically on questions of regulation which cut across the spectrum of the market and its freedoms On the other hand they adopt more sector specific lenses including for example regulation of the media and the Internet through which contemporary regulatory dynamics can be reconsidered Providing analysis of contemporary challenges facing the internal market this book will be of great interest to academics researchers and students working in the field of EC law It will also appeal to national and Community policy makers as it seeks to locate the constitutional and regulatory boundaries of the internal market sphere
