Input-Output Modeling Anatoli Smyshlyaev,2013-11-11 Input output modeling has through the years provided a consistent and unifying focus for IIASA s economic research Scientists working in the Institute first in the economic modeling task of the System and Decision Sciences area and later within the Economic Structural Change project have cooperated extensively with colleagues throughout the world in advancing and contributing to input output work Perhaps the most notable aspect of these efforts has been the joint work with the INFORUM Project to develop linked systems of national models Experience gained from the INFORUM IIASA studies has been of great benefit to other members of the I O community but this is by no means the end of the story Contributors not connected with INFORUM have also brought their own very valuable insights and knowledge to bear on the subject and input output modeling has moved progressively away from being a purely academic specialization A number of the methods developed have direct application to economic analysis and policy formulation and I O techniques have achieved widespread use in both governmental and commercial environments This volume presents the results of the fifth in a series of meetings organized by IIASA to promote methodological advances in the subject and to draw on a pool of I O expertise so as to further the aims of the Institute s in house economic research Rough Sets and Knowledge Technology James F. Peters, Yiju Yao, 2006-09-27 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the First International Conference on Rough Sets and Knowledge Technology RSKT 2006 held in Chongqing China in July 2006 The volume presents 43 revised full papers and 58 revised short papers together with 15 commemorative and invited papers Topics include rough computing evolutionary computing fuzzy sets granular computing neural computing machine learning and KDD logics and reasoning multiagent systems and Web intelligence and more The Role of Procurement Professionals in Industrial Projects Mario Büsch, 2014-04-23 This doctoral thesis deals with the role of procurement professionals in industrial projects The role of procurement in industrial manufacturing has attracted considerable attention over the last several years however the role of procurement in projects is rather underresearched From a project management point of view procurement is mainly considered a transactional task and remarkably few project management standards consider procurement at all To overcome this gap a Procurement Project Involvement Matrix has been developed Building on this matrix a Project Procurement Organisation Model for procurement experts involved into industrial projects was developed too In general the project procurement job tasks framework as well as the Project Procurement Organisation Model will help to implement improve and audit the involvement level of procurement in projects Investigation of Concentration of Economic Power: The structure of industry United States.
