Handbook of Community Movements and Local Organizations Ram A. Cnaan, Carl Milofsky, 2006-11-28

Although the way associations and the organization of local social life are intertwined is one of the oldest approaches to community study the way citizens and residents come together informally to act and solve problems has rarely been a primary focus

Associations are central to important and developing areas of social theory and social action This handbook takes voluntary associations as the starting point for making sense of communities It offers a new perspective on voluntary organizations and gives an integrated yet diverse theoretical understanding of this important aspect of community life Community

Gardening as Social Action Ms Claire Nettle, 2014-02-28 There has been a resurgence of community gardening over the past decade with a wide range of actors seeking to get involved from health agencies aiming to increase fruit and vegetable consumption to radical social movements searching for symbols of non capitalist ways of relating and occupying space Community gardens have become a focal point for local activism in which people are working to contribute to food security question the erosion of public space conserve and improve urban environments develop technologies of sustainable food production foster community engagement and create neighbourhood solidarity Drawing on in depth case studies and social movement theory Claire Nettle provides a new empirical and theoretical understanding of community gardening as a site of collective social action This provides not only a more nuanced and complete understanding of community gardening but also highlights its potential challenges to notions of activism community democracy and culture Ethnic Diasporas and the Canada-United States Security Community David G. Haglund, 2015-03-25 Ethnic Diasporas and the Canada United States Security Community focuses on three diasporas and their impact on North American security relations the Irish and Germans which were mainly in the US and the Muslim diaspora which is based in both countries The book begins by examining the evolution of North America from a zone of war to a zone of peace i e a security community starting with the debate over the nature and meaning of the Canada US border It then assesses the role of ethnic diasporas in North American security looking as to whether ethnic interest groups have been gaining influence over the shaping of the US foreign policy This debate is also valid in Canada especially given the practice of federal political parties of catering to blocs of ethnic voters The second section of the book focuses on three case studies The first examines the impact of the Irish Americans on the quality of security relations between the US and the UK and therefore between the former and Canada The second looks at an even larger diaspora the German Americans whose political agenda by the start of twentieth century attempted to discourage Anglo American entente and eventual alliance The final case concentrates on the debates around the North American Muslim diaspora in the past two decades a time when policy attention turned toward the greater Middle East which in many ways constitute the kin community of this politically active diaspora This comparative assessment of the three cases provides contextualization for today s discussion of homegrown terrorism and its implication for bilateral security cooperation in North America
