elucidated but also highlight how mutations in the genes which encode these molecules are responsible for many heritable skin diseases Leukocytes continually infiltrate the skin and patrol it for potentially harmful pathogens Control of leukocyte adhesion to resident cells within the skin and to the extracellular matrix plays a key role in controlling these processes These mechanisms constitute the primary focus of the final section The pivotal role of leukocytes is examined in conjunction with the chronic inflammatory diseases which arise when components of the skin s finely tuned defence strategy go awry and the potential for these anomalies to be pinpointed as important immunotherapeutic targets for skin diseases Harper's
