Hume and the Politics of Enlightenment Thomas Westneat Merrill, 2015 Methinks I am like a man who, having narrowly escaped shipwreck, David Hume writes in A Treatise of Human Nature, has yet the temerity to put out to sea in the same leaky, weather-beaten vessel and even carries his ambition so far as to think of compassing the globe. With these words, Hume begins a memorable depiction of the crisis of philosophy and his turn to moral and political philosophy as the path forward. In this groundbreaking work, Thomas W. Merrill shows how Hume's turn is the core of his thought, linking Hume's metaphysical and philosophical crisis to the moral, political,

Andrew Holowchak, 2017-02-20 In Jefferson's Political Philosophy and the Metaphysics of Utopia M. Andrew Holowchak traces the development of Jeffersonian republicanism as a political philosophy though it is today seldom seen as a political philosophy by examining the documents he wrote e.g. Declaration First Inaugural Address and significant letters and key literature he read That political philosophy fundamentally progressive and people first was driven by a vision of an empire of liberty a global confederation of republican nations in moral and political partnership and peaceful coexistence and was to take root in North America Jefferson's vision influenced his domestic and foreign policies as president and the numerous letters he wrote after his presidency but never took root there or anywhere Was that due to a defect of vision a view of humans capacities and goodness at odds with reality or were historical forces at play which were antagonistic to the rooting and suckering of Jeffersonian republicanism
