Contemporary Jewish-American Novelists Joel Shatzky,Michael Taub,1997-07-16 Since World War II Jewish American novelists have significantly contributed to the world of literature This reference book includes alphabetically arranged entries for more than 75 Jewish American novelists whose major works were largely written after World War II Included are entries for both well known and relatively obscure novelists many of whom are just becoming established as significant literary figures While the volume profiles major canonical figures such as Saul Bellow Norman Mailer and Bernard Malamud it also

aims to be more inclusive than other works on contemporary Jewish American writers. Thus there are entries for gay and lesbian novelists such as Lev Raphael and Judith Katz whose works challenge the more orthodox definition of Jewish religious and cultural traditions. Art Spiegelman whose controversial Maus established a new genre by combining elements of the comic book and the conventional novel, and newcomers such as Steve Stern and Max Apple who have become more prominent within the last decade. Each entry includes a brief biography, a discussion of major works and themes, an overview of the novelist's critical reception, and a bibliography of primary and secondary sources. A thoughtful introduction summarizes Jewish American fiction after World War II, and a selected general bibliography lists additional sources of information. Since World War II, Jewish American novelists have made numerous significant contributions to contemporary literature. Authors of earlier generations would frequently write about the troubles and successes of Jewish immigrants to America, and their works would reflect the world of European Jewish culture. But like other immigrant groups, Jewish Americans have become increasingly assimilated into mainstream American culture. Many feel the loss of their heritage and long for something to replace the lost values of the old world. This reference book includes alphabetically arranged entries for more than 75 Jewish American novelists whose major works were largely written after World War II. Included are entries for both well-known and relatively obscure novelists, many of whom are just becoming established as significant literary figures. Constructions David S. Goldstein, Audrey B. Thacker, 2011-10-01 This volume of collected essays offers truly multiethnic, historically comparative, and meta-theoretical readings of the literature and culture of the United States. Covering works by a diverse set of American authors from Toni Morrison to Bret Harte, these essays provide a vital supplement to the critical literary canon, mapping a newly variegated terrain that refuses the distinction between ethnic and nonethnic literatures.

George Oppen and the Fate of Modernism Peter Nicholls, 2007-10-25 Regard for George Oppen's poetry has been growing steadily over the last decade. Peter Nicholls's study offers a timely opportunity to engage with a body of work which can be both luminously simple and intriguingly opaque. Nicholls charts Oppen's commitment to Marxism and his later explorations of a poetics of being inspired by Heidegger and Existentialism, providing detailed accounts of each of the poet's books He is the first critic to draw extensively on the Oppen archive with its thousands of pages of largely unpublished notes and drafts for poems in doing so he is able to map the distinctive contours of Oppen's poetic thinking and to investigate the complex origins of many of his poems Oppen emerges from this study as a writer of mercurial intensities for whom every poem constitutes a beginning again a freeing of the mind from thoughts known in advance A strikingly innovative and challenging poetics results from Oppen's attempt to avoid what he regards as the errors of the modernist avant garde and to create instead a designedly impoverished aesthetic which keeps poetry close to the grain of experience and to the political and ethical dilemmas it constantly poses

Post-War Jewish Fiction D. Brauner, 2001-07-18 In this groundbreaking study David Brauner explores the representation of Jewishness in a number of works by postwar British and American Jewish writers identifying a transatlantic sensibility characterised by an insistent compulsion to explain themselves and their Jewishness in ambivalent terms Through detailed readings of novels by famous American authors such as Saul Bellow Philip Roth Bernard Malamud and Arthur Miller alongside those by lesser known British writers such as Frederic Raphael Jonathan Wilson Howard Jacobson and Clive Sinclair certain common preoccupations emerge Gentiles who mistake themselves for Jews Jewish hostility towards Nature writing and not writing about the Holocaust and the relationship between fact and fiction

People of the Body Howard Eilberg-Schwartz, 2012-02-01 By shifting attention from the image of Jews as a textual community to the ways Jews understand and manage their bodies for example to their concerns with reproduction and sexuality menstruation and childbirth this volume contributes to a revisioning of what Jews and Judaism are and have been The project of re-membering the Jewish body has both historical and constructive motivations As a constructive project this book describes renews and participates in the complex and ongoing modern discussion about the nature of Jewish bodies and the place of bodies in Judaism

Holocaust Film Terri Ginsberg, 2009-03-26 This timely new monograph takes as its starting point the provocative contention that Holocaust film scholarship has been marginalized academically despite the crucial role Holocaust film has played in fostering international awareness of the Nazi genocide and scholarly understandings of cinematic power The book suggests political and economic motivations for this seeming paradox the ideological parameters of which are evident in debates and controversies over Holocaust films themselves and around Holocaust culture in general Lending particular attention to four exemplary Holocaust art films Korczak Poland 1990 The Quarrel Canada 1990 Entre Nous France 1983 and Balagan Germany 1994 this book breaks disciplinary ground by drawing critical connections between public and scholarly debates over Holocaust representation and the often sophisticated cinematic structures lending aesthetic shape to them in today's global arena

The Ridiculous Jew Gary Rosenshield, 2008-09-25 This book is a study devoted to exploring the use of a Russian version of the Jewish stereotype the ridiculous Jew in the works of three of the greatest writers of the nineteenth century Rosenshield does not attempt to expose the stereotype which was self consciously and unashamedly employed Rather he examines how stereotypes are used to further the very different artistic cultural and ideological agendas of each writer What distinguishes this book from others is that it explores the problems that arise when an ethnic stereotype is so fully incorporated into a work of art that it takes on a life of its own often undermining the intentions of its author as well as many of the defining elements of the stereotype itself With each of these writers the Jewish stereotype precipitates a literary transformation taking their work into an uncomfortable space for the author and a challenging one for readers

Anti-Portraits: Poetics of the Face in Modern English, Polish and Russian Literature (1835-1965) Kamila Pawlikowska, 2015-10-05 Anti Portraits Poetics of the Face in Modern English Polish and Russian Literature 1835 1965 is a study of a physiognomic descriptions of the face It demonstrates that writers such as George Eliot Leo Tolstoy Edgar Allan Poe Nicolay Gogol Virginia Woolf and Witold Gombrowicz vigorously resisted the belief that facial features reflect character While other studies tend to focus on descriptions which affirm physiognomy this book examines portraits which question popular face reading systems and contravene their common premise the surface depth principle Such portraits reveal that physiognomic formula is a cultural construct invented to abridge, organise and regulate legibility of the human face. Most importantly, strange and unreadable fictional faces frequently expose the connection between physiognomic judgement and stereotyping, prejudice and racism.

Philip Roth through the Lens of Kepesh Paul McDonald, Samantha Roden, 2016-05-31 The Kepesh trilogy spans three decades of Philip Roth's career, beginning with The Breast in 1972 and continuing with The Professor of Desire in 1977 and The Dying Animal in 2001. This study demonstrates that the trilogy is not only worthy of critical analysis in its own right but also that an appreciation of its themes and strategies deepens our understanding of his entire fictional enterprise, offering an invaluable perspective on one of the world's most important novelists. Paul McDonald works at the University of Wolverhampton where he is Senior Lecturer in American Literature and Course Leader for Creative Writing. Among his other HEB titles are The Philosophy of Humour 2012 and Reading Beloved 2014. Samantha Roden is a Lead Practitioner for English at North East Wolverhampton Academy. She writes educational resources, digital pedagogical guides and conducts national webinars for Cambridge University Press. Her first full collection of poetry Catch Ourselves in Glass is forthcoming.

Off-canon Pleasures Armin Paul Frank, 2011 The inclusion of works in a canonical list creates a large body of exclusions. But among these neglected works, there are not a few that nevertheless are worth reading. Literary worth is not necessarily aesthetic impeccability. A literary work recommends itself by a high degree of artistic achievement with elbowroom for historical importance. The present study focuses on Leo Rosten's immigration novel The Education of Hyman Kaplan 1937 and Archibald MacLeish's radio play Air Raid 1938. The first is more than the apparent compendium of language-based jokes. Read in the context of immigration policy from Presidents Theodore Roosevelt to F. D. Roosevelt and of Jewish American humor, it displays Kaplan's moral and intellectual growth which extant commentary denies and exhibits the interior internationality of an immigration country. Air Raid is one of the few achieved American radio plays to take a stand on foreign affairs in a context that does not only consist of broadcasting and Picasso's collage painting Guernica, the screaming picture which MacLeish transposed into the acoustic medium but also of the historical saturation bombing of the Basque town.
