Ecosystem Goods and Services in Agricultural Systems Maria A. Tsiafouli,Evangelia G. Drakou,Alberto

Orgiazzi,Katarina Hedlund,Karl Ritz,2017-10-18 Agricultural land is subjected to a variety of societal pressures as demands for food animal feed and biomass production increase with an added requirement to simultaneously maintain natural areas and mitigate climatic and environmental impacts The biotic elements of agricultural systems interact with the abiotic environment to generate a number of ecosystem functions that offer services benefiting humans across many scales of time and space The intensification of agriculture generally reduces biodiversity including that within soil and impacts negatively upon a number of regulating and supporting ecosystem services There is a global need toward achieving sustainable agricultural systems as also highlighted in the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals There is hence a need for management regimes that enhance both agricultural production and the associated provision of multiple ecosystem services. The articles of this Research Topic enhance our knowledge of how management practices applied to agricultural systems affect the delivery of multiple ecosystem services and how trade offs between provisioning, regulating, and supporting services can be handled both above and below ground. They also show the diversity of topics that need to be considered within the framework of ecosystem services delivered by agricultural systems, from knowledge on basic concepts and newly proposed frameworks to a focus on specific ecosystem types such as grasslands and high nature value farmlands, pollinator habitats, and soil habitats. This diversity of topics indicates the need for broader scope research integrated with targeted scientific research to promote sustainable agricultural practices and to ensure food security.

A rich hybrid analysis of geography, history, culture, and politics. Jacket.

A History of the Berry Schools on the Mountain Campus Jennifer W. Dickey, 2013-09-03. At the dawn of the twentieth century, Martha Berry had a vision that a residential school for young men and women with limited educational opportunities would help break the cycle of poverty that pervaded the rural South. She began an educational experiment in northwest Georgia that unfolded during her lifetime and continues into the twenty-first century. This book tells the story of a part of that school, the high school that existed on the Mountain Campus at Berry for more than six decades. For the students who were educated there, the school was transformative. As one alumnus explained, the school had about it an intangible magic. Join author and Berry Academy alumna Jennifer Dickey as she captures the spirit of that school that today lives on in the head, heart, and hands of its graduates.
