Shh and Gli Signalling in Development Sarah Howie, Carolyn Elaine Fisher, 2008-05-24 The hedgehog signalling pathway is highly conserved and seen in organisms ranging from Drosophila to humans This pathway is critical in determining cell fate decisions in a variety of different cell types There are several vertebrate analogues of the Drosophila hedgehog protein of which the most widely studied is Sonic hedgehog Shh Shh signalling classically involves the Gli family of zinc finger transcription factors The Shh signalling pathway is well characterised in the development of a number of vertebrate organ systems It could indeed be argued that the Shh and Gli signalling may well be involved at some stage in the development of all the major organ systems in vertebrates This volume represents a concerted drive to bring together state of the art reviews by leading experts in the field of Shh and Gli signalling in development from all over the world The chapters span vertebrate organisms from zebrafish to humans and cover development of the multiple organ systems in which the Shh signalling pathway is crucial for normal development There are chapters on the development of the central nervous system skeletal structures visceral organs prostate lung immune system and the structures of the human face The authors themselves span three major continents and multiple nationalities which admirably illustrates the worldwide nature of the science

Bookbird, 1995      Non-Protein Coding RNAs Nils Walter, Sarah A. Woodson, Robert T. Batey, 2008-11-18 The 2006 Nobel Prize in Physiology or Medicine was awarded to the discoverers of RNA interference Andrew Fire and Craig Mello This prize which follows RNA Nobels for splicing and RNA catalysis highlights just one class of recently discovered non protein coding RNAs Remarkably non coding RNAs are thought to outnumber protein coding genes in mammals by perhaps as much as four fold In fact it appears that the complexity of an organism correlates with the fraction of its genome devoted to non protein coding RNAs Essential biological processes as diverse as cell differentiation suppression of infecting viruses and parasitic tra posons higher level organization of eukaryotic chromosomes and gene expression are found to be largely directed by non protein coding RNAs Currently bioinformatic high throughput sequencing and biochemical approaches are identifying an increasing number of these RNAs Unfortunately our ability to characterize the molecular details of these RNAs is significantly lacking The biophysical study of these RNAs is an emergent field that is unraveling the molecular underpinnings of how RNA fulfills its multitude of roles in sustaining cellular life The resulting understanding of the physical and chemical processes at the molecular level is critical to our ability to harness RNA for use in biotechnology and human therapy a prospect that has recently spawned a multi billion dollar industry
