Glowing Genes Marc Zimmer, 2010-04-06 Marc Zimmer has written the first popular science book on an amazing new area of biotechnology that will help fight cancer create new products improve agriculture and combat terrorism For more than one hundred and sixty million years green fluorescent protein has existed in one species of jellyfish In 1994 it was cloned giving rise to a host of useful and potentially revolutionary applications in biotechnology Today researchers are using this ancient glowing protein to pursue exciting new discoveries from tracking the process of bacterial infection to detecting chemical and biological agents planted by terrorists A recognized expert in this field Zimmer begins with an overview of the many uses of these glowing genes to kill and image cancer cells monitor bacterial infections and light up in the presence of pollution He then discusses the biological reasons that glowing proteins first evolved in jellyfish and fireflies and looks at the history of bioluminescence and the dedicated scientists who devoted their careers to explaining this phenomenon The story of how glowing genes were located cloned and then mass produced is in itself a fascinating tale Zimmer next turns to the serious and not so serious uses of fluorescent proteins In agriculture it may soon be possible to produce crops that signal dryness by glowing In industry a red fluorescent protein originally found in corals may find a use in sheep as a substitute for environmentally harmful wool dyes Furthermore the glowing gene revolution has led to significantly more humane treatment of laboratory animals No longer must animal lives be sacrificed to understand disease processes now researchers can observe the spread of cancer and infections by treating animals with green fluorescent genes and similar proteins In the fight against terrorism a glowing gene has been created that lights up in the presence of anthrax spores chemical warfare agents and landmines And in a completely different arena we have already seen the emergence of transgenic art in Alba the fluorescent bunny rabbit Glowing Genes is a highly informative fascinating and entertaining read about a burgeoning area of biotechnology that promises soon to revolutionize our world

The Blue-Glow Fire Unbeatable Marble Edward Connor, 2018-01-09 This is a fanciful story as the main character mainly recounts one particularly eventful year of his life as a young boy living in a fictional small town in rural Australia Sawtip was a unique hamlet that had strangely attracted a hodgepodge of characters from all over the world People who never quite felt they belonged anywhere until they found Sawtip Among the folk who entered the boy's life was his teacher Mr Cramburn a troubled soul who escaped what he could of life by anchoring himself to his cherished Rules of Life The somewhat dotty but dear Miss Julia Castalia and Mr Cramburn's mother whose sad life had turned her into a selfishly possessive parent and drove her son to his excesses but whose eccentricities revealed a woman of imagination and love There were also the O Nancyitches an impish family of peplechauns a cross between leprechauns and people In particular the daughter of that family Peggy O Nancyitch who kept to herself but was ever present when the young narrator needed rescuing The narrator s family consisted of his nine siblings which included his elder twin brothers whom he had always perceived as the worst of his tormentors There was his story telling father and his mother who was always there with tenderness and wise comforting words And not to forget the was his walking stick wielding and cantankerous grandmother who was also always there and always to be avoided The narrator s life revolved around his friends school playing marbles avoiding the bullies and his lifelong infatuation with Charlotte Prissy Face Righteous Worthington Having fun and getting into mischief were prime ingredients in the boy s life In pursuit of these he and his companions tormented the valley s cows into going on a milk strike before getting their revenge The young narrator had constantly to be on his toes to cope with the bullies that plagued his life However although bullies had the brawn he had a reservoir of cunning and imagination and of course Peggy Playing marbles was a great attraction to the boys of Sawtip and the narrator was a champion Unfortunately Simon the Bulldog from Brooklyn Jones also fancied himself as a marbles aficionado and worse still he was also enamoured with the beautiful Charlotte This led to several potentially unpleasant encounters as she manipulated them both that culminated in the greatest marbles game in the entire history of all marbles games It was during that game that the fabled Blue Glow Fire Unbeatable Marble appeared when utter defeat loomed large In adulthood he saw his friends from childhood drifting away and out of his life His infatuation with Charlotte eventually led to a wedding ceremony however the enigmatic Peggy O Nancyitch and another appearance of the mythical Marble saved the young man this time from a fate of nagging and mundane boredom

The Pony Fish's Glow George C. Williams,1998-09-25 We may regard ourselves as the most advanced species on the planet but have we really reached our optimum design Isn t there always room for improvements Before you answer let noted evolutionary biologist George C Williams remind you of both the exquisite adaptations and absurd maladaptations nature has bestowed upon us the self proclaimed pinnacle of evolution Picking up where Darwin left off Williams combines philosophical perspective and scientific method to provide a foundation for the answers to some fascinating questions He explains why our bodies have to deteriorate so disastrously with old age He gives us logical reasons to explain why we crave foods like sugar and fat that have been proven time and again to be detrimental to our health And Williams single handedly deflates our Homo sapiens sapiens ego with such insights as Our eyesight it may seem superior but not when compared to that of the invertebrate squid whose eye has developed over time to prove more efficient than ours And wouldn't it make more sense to have a third eye located on the back of the head We could have stereoscopic vision in front and rear vision warning us of danger sneaking up behind Rear view mirrors would become a thing of the past And why stop at three eyes This fascinating new book is markedly different from all previous work on evolutionary biology Using the pony fish and its luminescent abdomen as the perfect evolutionary mystery Williams explores the intricacies of nature's designs Rather than telling us how or why the pony fish got its light Williams explains the functional reasons why the pony fish keeps its light He also explains why our species keeps arbitrary or malfunctioned features like the reproductive and excretory systems sharing of parts George C Williams one of today's most qualified evolutionary biologists has written an important entertaining and thought provoking addition to a science that has captivated the world for almost 150 years     Herbert the Mouse M.
