address that encourage the spectator to develop a positive identification with the film's diegesis and narrative. Her films create unusual rapports between image and sound, diegetic and extra-diegetic elements and textual and intertextual dimensions of cinematic representation. In doing so they allow the film spectator to establish new connections with the screen. This collection focuses on the aesthetic, conceptual and political challenges involved in Duras's innovative approach to cinematic representation from an interdisciplinary perspective including film and literary theory, psychoanalytic analysis, music theory, gender studies and post-colonial criticism. The book opens with a theoretical introduction to Duras's cinematic practice and its peculiar position in contemporary cinema and contemporary film theory and is divided into five parts, each one devoted to a specific aspect of Duras's films: the interaction between literature and cinema; Part One: the reconfiguration of the cinematic gaze; Part Two: and of the image-sound relation; Part Three: the representation of history and memory; Part Four: and of cultural identity; Part Five.
