The Moon and the Western Imagination Scott L. Montgomery,2022-03-29 The Moon is at once a face with a thousand expressions and the archetypal planet Throughout history it has been gazed upon by people of every culture in every walk of life From early perceptions of the Moon as an abode of divine forces humanity has in turn accepted the mathematized Moon of the Greeks the naturalistic lunar portrait of Jan van Eyck and the telescopic view of Galileo Scott Montgomery has produced a richly detailed analysis of how the Moon has been visualized in Western culture through the ages revealing the faces it has presented to philosophers writers artists and scientists for nearly three millennia To do this he has drawn on a wide array of sources that illustrate mankind's changing concept of the nature and significance of heavenly bodies from classical antiquity to the dawn of modern science Montgomery especially focuses on the seventeenth century when the Moon was first mapped and its features named From literary explorations such as Francis Godwin's Man in the Moone and Cyrano de Bergerac's L'autre monde to Michael Van Langren's textual lunar map and Giambattista Riccioli's Almagestum novum he shows how Renaissance man was moved by the lunar orb how he battled to claim its surface and how he in turn elevated the Moon to a new level in human awareness The effect on human imagination has been cumulative our idea of the Moon and therefore the planets is multilayered and complex having been enriched by associations played out in increasingly complicated harmonies over time We have shifted the way we think about the lunar face from a perfect body to an earthlike one with corresponding changes in verbal and visual expression Ultimately Montgomery suggests our concept of the Moon has never wandered too far from the world we know best the Earth itself And when we finally establish lunar bases and take up some form of residence on the Moon's surface we will not be conquering a New World fresh and mostly unknown but a much older one ripe with history

Shoemaker by Levy David H. Levy,2021-02-09 It was a lucky twist of fate when in the early1980s David Levy a writer and amateur astronomer joined up with the famous scientist Eugene Shoemaker and his wife Carolyn to search for comets from an observation post on Palomar Mountain in Southern California Their collaboration would lead to the 1993 discovery of the most remarkable comet ever recorded Shoemaker Levy 9 with its several nuclei five tails and two sheets of debris spread out in its orbit plane A year later Levy would be by the Shoemakers side again when their comet ended its four billion year long journey through the solar system and collided with Jupiter in the most stunning astronomical display of the century Not only did this collision revolutionize our understanding of the history of the solar system but it also offered a spectacular confirmation of one scientist's life work As a close friend and colleague of Shoemaker who died in 1997 at the age of 69 Levy offers a uniquely insightful account of his life and the way it has shaped our thinking about the universe Early in his training as a geologist Shoemaker suspected that it wasn't volcanic activity but rather collisions with comets and asteroids that created most of the craters on the moon and most other bodies in the solar system Convincing the scientific community of the plausibility of impact theory and revealing its power for penetrating mysteries such as the extinction of the dinosaurs and the timing of the Earth's eventual demise became Shoemaker's mission Through conversations with Shoemaker and his family Levy reconstructs the journey that began with a young geologist's serious desire to go to the moon in the late 1940s Sent by the government to find a way to harvest plutonium Shoemaker instead found evidence in desert craters for what became his impact theory While he never became an astronaut he did become the first geologist hired by NASA and subsequently set the research agenda for the first manned lunar landing After a series of victories and setbacks for Shoemaker the collision of Shoemaker Levy 9 with Jupiter provided the most convincing proof to date of the role of impacts in our solar system Levy's explanation of the scientific reasoning that guided Shoemaker in his career up to this dramatic point as well as his personal portrait of a man who found white water rafting to be an easy way to relax sets these fascinating events in a human scale This biography shows what Shoemaker's legacy will be for our understanding of the story of the Earth well into the twenty first century

Moonstruck Ernest Naylor, 2015-09-23 Throughout history the influence of the full Moon on humans and animals has featured in folklore and myths Yet it has become increasingly apparent that many organisms really are influenced indirectly and in some cases directly by the lunar cycle Breeding behaviour among some marine animals has been demonstrated to be controlled by internal circalunar biological clocks to the point where lunar daily and lunar monthly patterns of Moon generated tides are embedded in their genes Yet intriguingly Moon related behaviours are also found in dry land and fresh water species living far beyond the influence of any tides In Moonstruck Ernest Naylor dismisses the myths concerning the influence of the Moon but shows through a range of fascinating examples the remarkable real effects that we are now finding through science He suggests that since the advent of evolution on Earth which occurred shortly after the formation of the Moon animals evolved adaptations to the lunar cycle and considers whether if Moon clock genes occur in other animals they also might exist in us
