Robert Hoyland, 2021-03-24 The interaction between Muslims and the other religious denominations of the Middle East in the period 620-1020 is the subject of this volume This is arguably the single most important issue in the history of the early Islamic Middle East since the Muslims were initially a minority in the lands that they had conquered and so had to reach some modus vivendi with the various religious communities in their realm Fifteen articles by leading scholars shed light on this process from a number of different perspectives historical conceptual legal social and theological An introduction both gives an overview and examines possibilities for future research The period under study is demarcated at one end by the Prophet Muhammad d 632 who as the Qur'an tells us had to deal with Jews Christians and polytheists At the other end lies the great legal political thinker Manardi d ca 1020 by whose time the Middle East had become substantially Islamicised statutory confines and also within the contemporary contexts of demands for equality neutrality and universal human rights Acknowledging the inherent pragmatism flexibility and values of the Common Law the authors argue that the controversial issue of accommodation of Shar ah is not necessarily one that requires the establishment of a separate and parallel legal system
