Performing Embodiment in Samuel Beckett's Drama Anna McMullan, 2020-07-24 The representation and experience of embodiment is a central preoccupation of Samuel Beckett's drama one that he explored through diverse media McMullan investigates the full range of Beckett's dramatic canon for stage radio television and film including early drama mimes and unpublished fragments She examines how Beckett's drama composes and recomposes the body in each medium and provokes ways of perceiving conceiving and experiencing embodiment that address wider preoccupations with corporeality technology and systems of power McMullan argues that the body in Beckett's drama reveals a radical vulnerability of the flesh questioning corporeal norms based on perfectible autonomous or invulnerable bodies but is also the site of a continual reworking of the self and of the boundaries between self and other Beckett's reimagining of the body presents embodiment as a collaborative performance between past and present flesh and imagination self and other including the spectator listener
