The Flight Of Icarus Artisan Autobiography In Early Modern Europe:

The Flight of Icarus James S. Amelang, 1998-08-01 Exploring autobiographical texts written by European urban craftsmen from the fifteenth to the eighteenth centuries this wide ranging book studies memoirs diaries family chronicles travel narratives and other forms of personal writings from Spain France Italy Germany and England In the process it considers the motivations of the authors the changing forms and emphases of artisan narratives and more generally the significance of written self expression in early modern popular culture By analyzing reading and writing as practices laden with social meaning this work aims to illuminate the changing role of the lower classes and other groups considered marginal in the history of literature and literacy It uncovers an Icarian logic by which writing about the self and one's immediate and private world developed as a complex response to widely shared expectations regarding the cultural and political subordination of craftsmen and others relegated to the margins of public life and discourse The book also contributes to the contemporary interdisciplinary debate concerning the nature and evolution of autobiographical writing It draws upon those currents within literary studies such as feminist criticism which favor a more flexible approach to the study of first person narrative than that adopted by traditional literary critics and historians of ideas It also argues for revising the standard history of autobiography eschewing the teleological presentation of a small handful of classic texts in favor of a more nuanced trajectory in which a wide range of social actors helped shape the emerging patterns of modern self understanding and expression

Literacy in Everyday Life Jeroen Blaak, 2009 Until recently historians of reading have concentrated on book ownership and trying to map out a history of who read what The reading experience has been a subject more difficult to research As has been pointed out before egodocuments can be valuable sources in this case Following this lead Literacy in Everyday Life focuses upon four early modern Dutch diaries in which readers document their daily life and in which they recount their reading In the analysis other ways in which these four readers communicated are also addressed especially speech and writing This book therefore provides an insight into the possible uses of literacy and the interaction between the printed written and spoken word in the early modern Dutch Republic

A Cultural History of Work in the Early Modern Age Bert De Munck, Thomas Max Safley, 2020-09-17 Winner of the 2020 PROSE Award for Multivolume Reference Humanities In the early modern age technological innovations were unimportant relative to political and social transformations The size of the workforce and the number of wage dependent people increased due in large part to population growth but also as a result of changes in the organization of work The diversity of workplaces in many significant economic sectors was on the rise in the 16th century family farming urban crafts and trades and large enterprises in mining printing and shipbuilding Moreover the increasing influence of global commerce as accompanied by local and regional specialization prompted an increased reliance on forms of under compensated and non compensated work which were integral to economic growth Economic volatility swelled the ranks of the mobile poor who moved along Europe's roads

seeking sustenance and the endemic warfare of the period prompted young men to sign on as soldiers and sailors Colonists migrated to Europe's territories in the Americas Africa and Asia while others were forced overseas as servants convicts or slaves The early modern age proved to be a renaissance in the political social and cultural contexts of work which set the stage for the technological developments to come A Cultural History of Work in the Early Modern Age presents an overview of the period with essays on economies representations of work workplaces work cultures technology mobility society politics and leisure

Early Modern European Society Henry Kamen, 2005-07-28 Drawing together common features of society from a range of different contexts throughout Europe from Italy and Spain to Poland and Russia Early Modern European Society surveys the sweeping changes affecting Europe from the end of the fifteenth century to the early decades of the eighteenth century Henry Kamen includes discussion on European identities frontiers and language leisure work and migration religion ritual and witchcraft the aristocracy the bourgeoisie and the poor gender roles social discipline and absolu

Romancing the Self in Early Modern Englishwomen's Life Writing Julie A. Eckerle, 2016-04-01 Juxtaposing life writing and romance this study offers the first book length exploration of the dynamic and complex relationship between the two genres In so doing it operates at the intersection of several recent trends interest in women's contributions to autobiography greater awareness of the diversity and flexibility of auto biographical forms in the early modern period and the use of manuscripts and other material evidence to trace literacy practices Through analysis of a wide variety of life writings by early modern Englishwomen including Elizabeth Delaval Dorothy Calthorpe Ann Fanshawe and Anne Halkett Julie A Eckerle demonstrates that these women were not only familiar with the controversial romance genre but also deeply influenced by it Romance she argues with its unending tales of unsatisfying love spoke to something in women's experience offered a model by which they could recount their own disappointments in a world where arranged marriage and often loveless matches ruled the day and exerted a powerful pervasive pressure on their textual self formations Romancing the Self in Early Modern Englishwomen's Life Writing documents a vibrant secular form of auto biographical writing that coexisted alongside numerous spiritual forms providing a much more nuanced and complete understanding of sixteenth and seventeenth century women's reading and writing literacies

Cultural Exchange in Early Modern Europe Robert Muchembled, William Monter, 2006 This volume surveys the crucial role of cities in shaping cultural exchange in early modern Europe

Generations Alexandra Walsham, 2023 Generations examines how the English Reformation was shaped by the generations that experienced witnessed and participated in it Drawing on a rich array of evidence it highlights the vital part played by families bound by blood and by faith in the religious revolution that stretched across the 16th and 17th centuries

The Marital Economy in Scandinavia and Britain 1400-1900 Maria Ågren, 2017-03-02 Marriage today is our prime social and legal institution Historically it was also the principal economic institution This collection of essays offers a wealth of original research into the economic social and legal history of the marital partnership in northern Europe over a 500 year period Erickson's introduction explores the concept of the marital economy and sketches the legal and economic background across the region. Chapters by Gren Gudrun Andersson, Agnes Arn, and Inger D. Beck-Elizabeth Ewan Rosemarie Fiebranz, Catherine Frances Hanne Johansen, Ann Catrin Stman, Anu Pylkkänen, Hilde Sandvik, and Jane Whittle are organized according to the three economic stages of the marital life cycle: forming the partnership, managing the partnership, and dissolving the partnership. In conclusion, Michael Roberts explores how the historical development of modern economic theory has removed marriage from its central position at the heart of the economy.

Leonardo Da Vinci Stephen J. Campbell, 2025-02-04 An examination of the modern cultural mythology of Leonardo da Vinci that sheds light on the intersections of the academy, the commercial art world, and ideas about attribution and authorship.

The Useful Knowledge of William Hutton Susan E. Whyman, 2018-09-20 The Useful Knowledge of William Hutton shows the rapid rise of a self-taught workman and the growing prominence of the city of Birmingham during the two major events of the eighteenth century: the Industrial Revolution and the Enlightenment. Hutton achieved wealth, land, status, and literary fame but later became a victim of violent riots. The book boldly claims that an understanding of the Industrial Revolution requires engagement with the figure of the rough diamond: a person of worth and character but lacking in manners, education, and refinement. A cast of unpolished entrepreneurs is brought to life as they drive economic and social change and improve their towns and themselves. The book also contends that the rise of Birmingham cannot be understood without accepting that its vibrant cultural life was a crucial factor that spurred economic growth. Readers are plunged into a hidden provincial world marked by literacy, bookshops, printing, authorship, and the spread of useful knowledge. We see that ordinary people read history and wrote poetry whilst they grappled with the effects of industrial change. Newly discovered memoirs reveal social conflict and relationships in rare detail. They also address the problems of social mobility, income inequality, and breath-taking technological change that continue to perplex us today.
