Stolen Years Memories Of A Country Boyhood:

Once Upon a Time, There Was a Lost, Gay, Little Boy. Jo Gabriel,2015-12-04 Jos mission is to connect with any who can relate to or care about abuse on any and all levels Jos vision is to see gaps of misunderstanding bridged between all who come in touch with victimizationwhether between victims survivors first responders aggressors perpetrators or mere bystanders Without those bridges there will never be growth Jos mission and vision continue to keep her focused on her work It is clear to her that those bridges between peoples will only be as strong as those who are working together to build them

No Voice is Ever Wholly Lost Louise Kaplan,1996-04-17 In this brilliant and inspirational book Louise Kaplan draws on her own experience as a psychoanalyst as well as on art literature and recent history to illuminate the psychological forces that sustain the dialogue between parents and children even after death This dialogue the heartbeat of human existence begins with an exchange of gestures between parent and infant Through these intimacies of everyday life the parent transmits to the child the emotional language of his species and eventually the verbal language and symbolic communication that enable the child to participate in human culture Once having entered into the human dialogue we cannot live without it The dialogue continues even after death Using a wide variety of examples from the child suffering brief separation anxiety to children of Holocaust victims to parents coping with the lifelong grief of losing a child Dr Kaplan demonstrates how to keep the voices of lost loved ones eternally alive

The Lost Childhood Graham Greene,2018-08-07 From Dickens to Wilde literary criticism and personal reflections by a master unmatched in his uncanny psychological insights The New York Times Graham Greene shares his love affair with reading in this collection of essays memories and critical considerations both affectionate and tart that could have come from no other source than the author of Brighton Rock and The Power and the Glory The Scotsman Whether following the obsessions of Henry James marveling at the indispensable Beatrix Potter or exploring the Manichean world of Oliver Twist Graham Greene revisits the books and authors of his lifetime Here is Greene on Fielding Doyle Kipling and Conrad on The Prisoner of Zenda and the revolutionary colossal egoism of Laurence Stern s epic comic novel Tristram Shandy on the adventures of both Allan Quatermain and Moll Flanders and more Greene strolls among the musty oddities and folios sold on the cheap at an outdoor book mart tells of a bizarre literary hoax perpetrated on a hapless printseller in eighteenth century Pall Mall and in the titular essay reveals the book that unlocked his imagination so thoroughly that he decided to write forever For Greene all the other possible futures slid away In this prismatic gallery of profound influences and guiltless pleasures Greene proves himself so intensely alive that the reader cannot but respond to the dazzling combination of intelligence and strong feeling Edward Sackville West

Charles Dickens and the Sciences of Childhood K. Boehm,2013-09-24 This book takes a fresh look at childhood in Dickens works and in Victorian science and culture more generally It offers a new way of understanding Dickens interest in childhood by showing how his fascination with new scientific ideas about childhood and practices of scientific inquiry shaped his narrative techniques and aesthetic imagination To Write the Africa World Achille Mbembe, Felwine Sarr, 2022-12-01 In October 2016 thirty intellectuals and artists from Africa its diasporas and beyond gathered together in Dakar and Saint Louis Senegal to reflect on the present and future of Africa in the midst of transformations that are sweeping through the contemporary world The aim was to take stock of the renewal of Afro diasporic critical thought and to discuss the new perspectives emerging from the ongoing projects constructing political cultural and social imaginaries for and from the African continent This book brings together and makes available to the English speaking world the material presented at the 2016 Ateliers de la pens e Workshops of Thought in Dakar The authors deal with a wide range of issues including decolonization the development of social utopias and the pursuit of new forms of political economic and social production on the African continent Running throughout is a constant concern to interrogate the categories and frames of meaning that have served to characterize the dynamics of the African continent and a shared desire to produce new frames of intelligibility through which to see Africa s present realities and its future The contributions also attest to the view that there is no African question that is not also a global question and that the Africanization of the global question will be a decisive feature of the twenty first century To Write the Africa World and its companion volume The Politics of Time will be indispensable for anyone interested in Africa its past present and future and in the new forms of critical thought emerging from Africa and the Global South Writing Home Elmer

Kennedy-Andrews, 2008 The idea of place and of being displaced is a powerful leit motif in Northern Irish poetry It is here explored in depth from the 1960s to the present day Ideas of home place and identity have been continually questioned re imagined and re constructed in Northern Irish poetry Concentrating on the period since the outbreak of the Troubles in the late 1960s this study provides a detailed consideration of the work of several generations of poets from Hewitt and MacNeice to Fiacca and Montague to Simmons Heaney Mahon and Longley to Muldoon Carson Paulin and McGuckian to McDonald Morrissey Gillis and Flynn It traces the extent to which their writing represents a move away from concepts of rootedness and towards a deterritorialized poetics of displacement mobility openness and pluralism in an era of accelerating migration and globalisation In the new readings of place inherited maps are no longer reliable and home is no longer the stable ground of identity but seems instead to be always where it is not The crossing of boundaries and the experience of diaspora open up new understandings of the relations between places a new sense of the permeability and contingency of cultures and new concepts of identity and home Professor ELMER KENNEDY ANDREWS teaches in the Department of English at the University of Ulster Representing Aboriginal Childhood Joanne Faulkner, 2023-02-28 This book critically investigates the ways in which Aboriginal children and childhood figure in Australia s cultural life to mediate Australians ambivalence about the colonial origins of the nation as well as its possible post colonial futures Engaging with representations in literature film governmental discourse and news and infotainment media it shows how ways of representing Aboriginal children and childhood serve a national project of representing settler Australian values through the forgetting of colonial violence Analysing the ways in which certain negative aspects of Australian nationhood are concealed rendered invisible and repressed through practices of representing Aboriginal children and childhood it challenges accepted shared understandings regarding Australian ness and settler colonial sovereignty Through an innovative interdisciplinary approach that engages critical theory post colonial theory literary studies history psychoanalysis and philosophy Representing Aboriginal Childhood responds to urgent questions that pivot on the role of the Indigenous child within settler nation state formations As such it will appeal to scholars of sociology and social geography collective memory politics and cultural studies

Historical and Cultural Transformations of Russian Childhood Marina Balina, Larissa Rudova, Anastasia Kostetskaya, 2022-11-30

Historical and Cultural Transformations of Russian Childhood is a collection of multidisciplinary scholarly essays on childhood experience The volume offers new critical approaches to Russian and Soviet childhood at the intersection of philosophy literary criticism film visual studies and history Pedagogical ideas and practices and the ideological and political underpinnings of the experience of growing up in pre revolutionary Russia the Soviet Union and Putin s contemporary Russia are central venues of analysis Toward the goal of constructing the multimedial childhood text the contributors tackle issues of happiness and trauma associated with childhood and foreground its fluidity and instability in the Russian context The volume further examines practices of reading childhood as nostalgic text documentary evidence and historic mythology Considering Russian childhood as historical documentation or fictional narrative as an object of material culture and as embodied in different media periodicals visual culture and cinema the volume intends to both problematize but also elucidate the relationship between childhood history and various modes of narrativity

Childhood Depression Gillian Miles, 2018-04-17 This title is based on the results of a project based at the Tavistock Clinic in London which set out to explore whether children and young people aged nine years to fifteen years suffering from depression could be helped using brief focused psychodynamic psychotherapy together with parent work and family therapy There were also centres in Athens Greece and Helsinki Finland and in this way the clinicians had sufficient subjects from which to compare the interventions and check for any possible cultural differences in the results Most of the children and young people studied showed a noticeable improvement The book contains chapters by the clinicians involved describing their work as well as a section containing the scientific papers that emerged from the project It is hoped that this may encourage the use of similar approaches to working in the field especially in these days when there is such a demand for psychological therapies

Bookseller and the Stationery Trades' Journal , 1979 Modernity, Domesticity and Temporality in Russia Rebecca Friedman, 2020-07-09 Revolution war dislocation famine and rivers of blood these traumas dominated everyday life at turn of the century Russia As Modernity Domesticity and Temporality in Russia explains amidst such public turmoil Russians turned inwards embracing and carefully curating the home in an effort to express both personal and national identities From the nostalgic landed estate with its backward gaze to the present focused and efficient urban apartment to the utopian communal dreams of a Soviet future the idea of time was deeply embedded in Russian domestic life Rebecca Friedman is the first to weave together these twin concepts of time and space in relation to Russian culture and in doing so this book reveals how the revolutionary domestic experiments reflected a desire by the state and by individuals to control the rapidly changing landscape of modern Russia Drawing on extensive popular and literary sources both visual and textual this fascinating book enables readers to understand the reshaping of Russian space and time as part of a larger revolutionary drive to eradicate however ambivalently the 19th century gentrified sloth in favour of the proficient Soviet comrade

My Lost Childhood Abraham Deng Ater, 2013 My Lost Childhood is a memoir describing immeasurable suffering the author went through in his early childhood In the late 1980s the Islamic government began to systematically torture and kill Southern Sudanese families burn their villages and enslave young boys and girls As a result an approximately as numbers are largely unknown and only an estimate 27 000 plus boys from Southern tribes were forced to flee from their homes Traveling naked and barefoot they sought refuge in neighboring Fugnido Ethiopia where a few years later they were forced to flee yet another civil war Returning to Sudan the Islamic government forced them to travel for another five months ultimately arriving in Kakuma Kenya after four years of unthinkable hardship and walking over thousands of miles naked barefoot and ailing from starvation dehydration and diseases Many boys perished along the way and their numbers shrank into few thousands Abraham Deng Ater separated from his family in 1987 is one of approximately 3 800 boys now known as the Lost Boys of Sudan He left Kakuma Refugee Camp in Kenya after several years of massive suffering and was granted refuge in the U S in 2001 Many Lost Boys including Abraham have since become U S citizens and have continued to pursue their education Thousands more have also been granted refuge elsewhere and are scattered around the globe

The Postcolonial Low Countries Elleke Boehmer, Sarah De Mul, 2012-06-01 The Postcolonial Low Countries is the first book to bring together critical and comparative approaches to the emergent field of neerlandophone postcolonial studies The collection of essays ranges across the cultures and literatures of the Netherlands and Belgium and establishes an encounter between postcolonial theoretical discourses from both within and without the region Each one of the contributions puts under pressure the definitive concepts of postcolonial studies in its more conventional anglophone or francophone formation as well as perceptions of the Low Countries Belgium and the Netherlands as lying outside or to the side of the postcolonial domain In the Low Countries local and regional issues concerning multiculturalism and colonial belatedness have raised important questions about the possible grounds on which postcolonial critical concepts might be not only translated but also generated afresh to suit these paradoxically new contexts As The Postcolonial Low Countries incisively demonstrates the Low Countries demand a careful rearticulation of such postcolonial readymades as hybridity accommodation and creolization Gathering together contributions from both internationally renowned scholars and newly established researchers in the field The Postcolonial Low Countries maps previously underexplored national and transnational literary critical trajectories The book challenges in boundary shifting ways current readings of the so described multicultural and postcolonial Netherlands and Belgium Lost Childhood Melina Keel,2018-09-01 This book chronicles journey and struggles of Melina Keel Birth name Seah Pee Hong from her difficult and impoverished childhood in Singapore to her successful and rewarding life as a wife mother grandmother and medical professional in the United States It was written as a legacy for her family and friends and especially for her grandchildren who were still very young at the time of her passing

Changing Landscapes for Childhood and Youth in Europe Vassiliki Deliyianni,2014-06-02 Contemporary social transformations characterised by multi dimensional globalisation and technological change have lent new impetus to the emergence of internationally oriented and interdisciplinary childhood and youth studies Analysis of sharpened polarisations of chances and risks within and between generations in specific life circumstances meets up with the re conceptualisation of childhood and youth as social constructions within the life course As such insulated national discourses are no longer an adequate framework to address such issues economic and cultural globalisation processes exert dual and reciprocal influences restructuring societies and identities from within and without This collection offers a three fold thematic focus on the social construction of the life course privileging gendered and family transitions and transformations on the contours of not belonging in particular bringing migration and poverty into the spotlight and on the potential of virtual worlds for creating and enabling new positive and negative forms of individual social and political action on the part of young people This collection thus offers a particular snapshot of the current landscape of childhood and youth studies and it provides a set of exemplars from diverse national contexts Each chapter can stand for itself but the contributions are ordered thematically not according to the corner of the world from which they derive As the introductory chapter explores the intention is via a loose vectoring of theme and context to encourage multiple opportunities for reflection on relations between the specificities and commonalities of children s and young people s lives today This volume joins the growing library of scholarly resources for international and interdisciplinary childhood and youth studies it brings together well established and young scholars writing from an unusual range of national and cultural contexts The collection will be of interest not simply for specialist researchers and those in related fields but equally as a teaching and learning resource for higher education professionals and students in social sciences and education including courses that link theory and research with policy and practice

The Cambridge Handbook of Childhood Multilingualism Anat Stavans,Ulrike Jessner,2022-08-25 Childhood multilingualism has become a norm rather than an exception This is the first handbook to survey state of the art research on the uniqueness of early multilingual development in children growing up with more than two languages in contact It provides in depth accounts of the complexity and dynamics of early multilingualism by internationally renowned scholars who have researched typologically different languages in different continents Chapters are divided into six thematic areas following the trajectory environment and conditions underlying the incipient and early stages of multilingual children s language development The many facets of childhood multilingualism are approached from a range of perspectives showcasing not only the challenges of multilingual education and child rearing but also the richness in linguistic and cognitive development of these children from infancy to early schooling It is essential reading for anyone interested in deepening their understanding of the multiple aspects of multilingualism seen through the unique prism of children

The Promise of Memory Lorna Martens,2011-10-10 We once believed in the power of Proust s madeleine and Wordsworth s boyhood memories before literary culture began to defer to Freud s questioning of adult memories of childhood In this first sustained look at childhood memories as depicted in literature Lorna Martens reveals how much we may have lost by turning our attention the other way

Narrating Human Rights in Africa Eleni Coundouriotis,2020-12-13

Narrating Human Rights in Africa claims human rights from the perspective of artists from the African continent and situates the key theoretical concepts in African perspectives undercutting the stereotypes of victimhood and voicelessness Instead of positioning literary texts as illustrative of points already theorized elsewhere the author foregrounds the literature itself to show the concepts it offers the ideas and responses stemming from complex historical circumstances in Africa and expressed by African writers The book focuses on how narrative creates new categories of thought challenging human rights dogma whereas the sum of the literary voices evoked also stands by the values of social justice and protection of human rights The chapters take up key challenges to the narration of human rights in which the contribution of African writers is particularly important This includes human dignity in the resistance to apartheid the figure of the child soldier how humanitarianism s images affect representational strategies of contemporary African writers the challenge of testifying about rape in war how to evoke the disappeared body of the torture victim the centrality of flight in the refugee and migrant experiences and finally the long shadow of the heart of darkness motif Offering a sustained examination of the narrative treatment of key human rights concerns as expressed by African writers this book will be of interest to scholars of African literature postcolonial studies African studies and human rights
