Taylor, 2014-02-04 Mark C Taylor recounts a poignant love affair not with a person but with a place that paradoxically cannot be easily localized For many years Taylor has lived in the Berkshire Mountains where he writes and creates land art and sculpture In a world of mobile screens and virtual realities where speed is the measure of success and place is disappearing his work slows down thought and brings life back to earth to give readers time to ponder the importance of place before it slips away Taylor extends reflection beyond the page and returns with new insights about what is hiding in plain sight all around us Weaving together words objects and images his artful work enacts what it describes Things long familiar suddenly appear strange and the strange unexpected and unprogrammed unsettle readers in surprising ways This timely meditation gives pause in the midst of harried lives and turns attention toward what we usually overlook night silence touch grace ghosts water earth stones bones idleness infinity slowness and contentment Recovering Place is a unique work that lingers long after the book is closed From Brass to Gold: Discography of A&M Records and affiliates in the United States Leslie J.
