Reproduction of the original The Antigonos publishing house specialises in the publication of reprints of historical books We make sure that these works are made available to the public in good condition in order to preserve their cultural heritage      Stories by Foreign Authors: Scandinavian Various Authors, Fritz Bagger had just been admitted to the bar He had come home and entered his room seeking rest All his mental faculties were now relaxed after their recent exertion and a long restrained power was awakened He had reached a crisis in life the future lay before him the future the future What was it to be He was twenty four years old and could turn himself whichever way he pleased let fancy run to any line of the compass Out upon the horizon he saw little rose colored clouds and nothing therein but a certain undefined bliss He put his hands over his eyes and sought to bring this uncertainty into clear vision and after a long time had elapsed he said Yes and so one marries Yes one marries he continued after a pause but whom His thoughts now took a more direct course but the pictures in his mind s eye had not become plainer Again the horizon widely around was rose colored and between the tinted cloud layers angel heads peeped out not Bible angels which are neither man nor woman but angelic girls whom he didn t know and who didn t know him The truth was he didn t know anybody to whom he could give his heart but longed with a certain twenty four year power for her to whom he could offer it her who was worthy to receive his whole self made being and in exchange give him all that queer imagined bliss which is or ought to be in the world as every one so firmly believes Oh I am a fool he said as he suddenly became conscious that he was merely dreaming and wishing He tried to think of something practical thought upon a little picnic that was to be held in the evening but the same dream returned and overpowered him because the season of spring was in him because life thrilled in him as in trees and plants when the spring sun shines He leaned upon the window seat it was in an attic and let the wind cool his forehead But while the wind refreshed the street itself gave his mind new nourishment Down there it moved to him unknown and veiled and hidden as at a masquerade What a treasure might not that easy virgin foot carry What a fancy might there not be moving in the head under that little bonnet and what a heart might there not be beating under the folds of that shawl But too all this preciousness might belong to another      Stories by Foreign Authors: Scandinavian Bjørnstjerne Bjørnson, Juhani Aho, Alexander Lange Kielland, Fredrika Bremer, Meir Goldschmidt, 2023-10-25

Within the pages of Stories by Foreign Authors Scandinavian readers are invited to embark on a literary journey across frozen landscapes and into the warm hearts of the Nordic people The anthology assembles a rich tapestry of narratives that oscillate between the bleak existentialism characteristic of Scandinavian literature and moments of profound tenderness and wit It showcases a diverse array of literary styles from the critical realism of Alexander Lange Kielland to the romantic nationalism of Bjørnstjerne Bjørnson offering a panoramic view of the region's literary prowess in the nineteenth century. This collection not only encapsulates the essential themes of love, nature, and societal critique but also highlights the individual voices that have shaped Scandinavian literary heritage. The authors featured in this collection—Bjørnstjerne Bjørnson, Juhani Aho, Alexander Lange Kielland, Fredrika Bremer, and Merete Goldschmidt—are titans in their own right, each contributing to the Scandinavian cultural and literary landscape in meaningful ways. Their collective works resonate with the philosophical and aesthetic movements that defined Europe in the 1800s, such as Romanticism, Realism, and the burgeoning stirrings of Modernism, providing a comprehensive understanding of the period's eclectic sensibilities. Bringing together such varied voices offers a multifaceted exploration of the Scandinavian spirit, characterized by introspection and a profound connection to the natural world.

 An indispensable management guide to making sure that the long-term strategies and day-to-day goals a company sets are successfully executed, written by the coauthor of the national bestseller It's Not the Big That Eat the Small, It's the Fast That Eat the Slow. Good managers at every level recognize the importance of strategic planning and setting concrete goals for their employees. But even the best among them often fail to implement and support the crucial processes that turn well-laid plans into visible successes. Studies show that over the last fifty years, a whopping 83 percent of corporate slowdowns were attributable not to outside economic forces but to the lack of vigilant follow-through within the company itself. In IT'S NOT WHAT YOU SAY, IT'S WHAT YOU DO, Laurence Haughton identifies the missteps that allow initiatives to fall through the cracks and explains how to close the gap between what a company sets out to do and what actually happens. Drawing on interviews with top-level executives from such companies as IKEA, the Wall Street Journal, Charles Schwab, Time Warner, Watson Wyatt, Pella Corp, and scores of others, both large and small, he presents the essential strategies for ensuring the success of innovations and change, including:
