One Hot Summer in Kyoto John Haylock, 1998-07-01 The tale of English teacher Peter Meadowes who flees to Kyoto for a summer vacation and finds himself lusting after every woman he sees Hot and sticky describes the ancient Japanese city of Kyoto in summer And that is just the situation Peter Meadowes finds himself in when he flees to Kyoto for his summer vacation During the rest of the year the middle aged Meadowes teaches in Tokyo a circumstance which conveniently enables him to leave his commanding wife who hates Japan back in England In the old capital Meadowes also expects to find relief from Noriko his grim Japanese mistress But in the small wood and paper Japanese house he has rented he finds something unexpected another woman to desire Kazumi is seductive yet she always manages to slip away Then Noriko arrives oddly possessive but sharing giggles with Kazumi perhaps about Meadowes's prowess Next on the scene is Miss Goto polite apologetic a serious lover of theater who turns an elaborately staged seduction into a comedy of errors When wife Monica shows up from England Meadowes must choose and fast John Haylock's novel vividly evokes the languid torpor of summer in the fabled city of temples and gardens Yet hidden within this steamy farce about obsessive lust is an underbelly of duplicity discontent and fear When making his choice Peter Meadows confronts the love hate relationship that afflicts the typical gaijin foreigner in Japan Remaining in Japan may be impossible but escaping only creates the desire to return

Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Anything Edward Quiros MD MBA FACS,2019-07-29 I am not a writer or an author of novels or essays It always discourages me to see so many authors or writers some established others just attempting to make a name for themselves every time I enter a bookstore and see thousands and thousands of titles of novels or books or whatever the writer thinks it is worth writing about Some are new editions others neatly arranged in that heap called bargain purchases It immediately put a stop to my idea of putting what I think is a subject that must be indelible of everyday events that people talk about after seeing it on TV or coming across it on a page of a local or national newspaper Something like Charles Krauthammer s seminal essays in Things That Matter Andy Rooney s astute observations in Common Sense or the provocative articles in humorist Dave Barry s I Am Not Making This Up But growing older in age and with the remaining future not so distant anymore the impulse and the courage to tell anyone who is interested in what you have to say becomes compulsive as magma wanting to erupt from the bowels of the earth s core That is why these essays compiled and culled from the files of what I have kept these years writing editorials in magazines from applications to a graduate school I never finished and received a diploma and from other sources the names I can't recall from recent and contemporaneous events onerously repeated by pundits and so called experts became bound in a form you are holding today The ideas may be past but still relevant They might be current and dissecting them with the pros and cons of opinions providing the diversity we strive for I do not claim originality in the subjects I write about They might not be original but I have burnished them with a different patina the reader never thought of colorizing The research of some of the data was done via websites different articles read speeches made my notes and recollections and some older versions of articles I have written in some newsmagazines For privacy reasons I have changed the names in one essay in particular as I was not successful in communicating with the persons despite attempts at doing so I have also to the best of my ability adhered to the fair use doctrine using some data or quotations in some of my essays In any case I hope it is while your time effort and your trip to the bookstore to come up and peruse what is in your hands
