Stirring the Greek Nation Ioannis Stefanidis, 2016-12-05 This work examines the background to Greek nationalist politics and its effects on public opinion towards international events and territorial claims from the end of the Second World War to the collapse of constitutional rule in 1967 It explains how intermittent public mobilisation on various foreign policy issues created a political culture that combined elements of nationalism religion race and stereotypes about the national Self and the Other The book challenges widely held assumptions that Greek irredentism was all but dead and buried in the aftermath of the Asia Minor catastrophe of 1922 and that anti Americanism was the product of US support for the Colonels regime of 1967-74 and its condoning of the Turkish occupation of northern Cyprus It begins with an examination of the revival of irredentism in connection with Greek national claims after 1945 and the two campaigns for the union of Cyprus with Greece during the 1950s and 1960s The second part of the study reveals anti Americanism to be largely the result of failed post war Greek territorial ambitions particularly the frustration of the Enosis claim rather than the actual intervention of the United States in Greek affairs Drawing on a huge variety of sources including the Greek press records of the Greek Parliament the US and British National Archives as well the archives of numerous individuals this book provides a fascinating account of Greek political culture and national self image at a crucial time in the country's political development

The methane moment - Cross-boundary significance of methanogens

Zhe Lyu, Amelia-Elena Rotaru, Mark Pimentel, Cuijing Zhang, Simon K.-M. R. Rittmann, 2024-07-30 Methane is a potent greenhouse gas a relatively clean burning fossil fuel but also a renewable biofuel when biologically produced from waste treatment plants Most 70% of the global methane emission comes from methanogenic archaea namely methanogens that produce methane from simple substrates such as  $H_2$   $CO_2$  formate acetate methanol and other methylated compounds Methanogens are found across all corners of the earth including but not limited to wetlands animals and humans rice fields landfills sewage ocean termites and hydrothermal vents Their extensive adaptations to such a wide range of habitats predict a cross boundary significance of methanogens in many areas such as the environment energy agriculture biotechnology and human and animal health The goal of this Research Topic is to offer a forum that highlights the cross boundary significance of methanogens by bringing together methanogen research from diverse settings to one place This cross boundary significance is currently underappreciated but imperative to collectively understanding and helping to solve some of the biggest and most urgent challenges humanity is facing such as global warming food and energy insecurity pollution and disease As a more potent and shorter lived greenhouse gas than  $CO_2$  methane has moved to the center stage in our efforts in rapidly combating climate change Presumably methanogens and their associated microbes may have been forced into a positive feedback loop to fuel the sharp rise of methane in recent years On the other hand methanogens are considered keystone species in the ecosystem which are vital to the stability of the natural biome therein However the roles of methanogens as keystone species across their habitats are underexplored Moreover the role of methanogens in human and animal intestinal microbiomes have been reconsidered with evidence for links to disease and impact on nutrition Last but not the least methanogens are emerging as a cell factory model for green manufacturing because of their abilities to convert CO<sub>2</sub> to valuable biochemicals Further efforts in the bioengineering of methanogens have the potential to expand their commercial application from waste treatment to biomanufacturing We welcome both basic and translational studies relevant to methanogens from any setting Studies with a focus on methanogens are highly encouraged and manuscripts having methanogens as a significant component are also welcome All studies should emphasize and envisage their implications in understanding and or solving one or more challenges humanity is facing To encourage submissions from multiple disciplines this Research Topic is cross listed with a number of Frontiers journals and sections Manuscripts in the forms of Original Research Review including systematic and mini review Methods Hypothesis and Theory and Perspectives are all welcome Manuscript summary submissions are highly encouraged but all manuscripts submitted prior to the manuscript submission deadline will receive full consideration This Research Topic is dedicated to Dr William Barny Whitman Emeritus Professor of Microbiology at the University of Georgia Athens GA His 40 years and still counting of productive research in methanogens roseobacter and other prokaryotes have contributed to and will continue to inspire new discoveries in the cross boundary significance of both archaea and bacteria the unseen majority COI Statement S K M R R is co founder of Arkeon GmbH M P is a consultant for Bausch Health Ferring Pharmaceuticals Inc Salvo Health and Vivante Health Inc Computing Myths, Class Realities David Hakken, 2019-03-07 This study of computing in an economically transforming city in the north of England looks at how new information technologies effect and are affected by a historically vibrant working class culture Stressing the complex interplay between technology and culture especially notions about work and labor the authors examine how this dynamic is manifest in computer related jobs in social relationships and in the reproduction of local culture They analyze the structure of computing in Sheffield placing it in the contexts of national state policy world political economy and the regional labor market and they explore the processes of computing in relation to the reproduction of gendering the rise of labor freedom and local attempts to influence the course of computerization The experiences of the people in Sheffield and South Yorkshire have much to teach us about what technology does and what we can do to control it Computing Myths Class Realities will be of interest not only to anthropologists and sociologists but to all scholars interested in the social correlates of computing Stirring the Pot James C. McCann, 2009-10-31 Africa s art of cooking is a key part of its history All too often Africa is associated with famine but in Stirring the Pot James C McCann describes how the ingredients the practices and the varied tastes of African cuisine comprise a body of historically gendered knowledge practiced and perfected in households across diverse human and ecological landscape McCann reveals how tastes and culinary practices are integral to the understanding of history and more generally to the new literature on food as social history Stirring the Pot offers a chronology of African cuisine beginning in the sixteenth century and continuing from Africa s original edible endowments to its globalization McCann traces cooks use of new crops spices and tastes including New World imports like maize hot peppers cassava potatoes tomatoes and peanuts as well as plantain sugarcane spices Asian rice and other ingredients from the Indian Ocean world He analyzes recipes not as fixed ahistorical documents but as lively and living records of historical change in women s knowledge and farmers experiments A final chapter describes in sensuous detail the direct connections of African cooking to New Orleans jambalaya Cuban rice and beans and the cooking of African Americans soul food Stirring the Pot breaks new ground and makes clear the relationship between food and the culture history and national identity of Africans
