Nonviolent Story Robert R. Beck, 2009-03-01 What do the gospels contribute to our understanding of nonviolent versus violent means of conflict resolution Many biblical scholars contend that the gospels have little to say on this subject Others seek answers in ethical principles found in Jesus's teachings which may or may not be interpreted as accepting or rejecting violence In Nonviolent Story Robert Beck proposes a new way of reading the Gospel of Mark one that points to a challenging message of nonviolent resistance as reflected in the story of Jesus's life and ministry According to narrative analysis the message of the Gospel is found in the structure of the story itself Beck contends that the narrative form of Mark's gospel portrays Jesus as a protagonist who does not avoid conflict but enters into it without himself resorting to violence He thus serves as a model of the nonviolent resistance that inspired Gandhi and Martin Luther King Jr By using literary analysis to explore Mark's gospel Beck opens up a counter story that challenges the prevailing American cultural myth of constructive violence Beck uses the Western tales of Louis L. Amour as the narrative essence of this pop mythology and the total opposite of the story told by Mark

Thinking about Stories Samuel Lebens, Tatjana von Solodkoff, 2023-10-31 Thinking About Stories is a fun and thought provoking introduction to philosophical questions about narrative fiction in its many forms from highbrow literature to pulp fiction to the latest shows on Netflix Written by philosophers Samuel Lebens and Tatjana von Solodkoff it engages with fundamental questions about fiction such as What is it What does it give us Does a story need a narrator And why do sad stories make us cry if we know they aren't real The format of the book emulates a lively verbal exchange each chapter has only one author while the other appears spontaneously in dialogues in the text along the way raising questions and voicing criticisms and inviting responses from their co-author This unique format allows readers to feel like they are a part of the conversation about the philosophical foundations of some of the fictions in their own lives Key Features Draws on a wide range of types of narrative fiction from Harry Potter to Breakfast of Champions to Parks and Recreation Explores how fiction despite its detachment from truth is often best able to teach us important things about the world in which we live Concludes by asking in the final chapter whether we all might be fictions Includes bibliographies and suggested reading lists in each chapter

Automatic Generation of Computer Animation Ruqian Lu, Songmao Zhang, 2003-08-06 We are both fans of watching animated stories Every evening before or after dinner we always sit in front of the television and watch the animation program which is originally produced and shown for children We find ourselves becoming younger while immersed in the interesting plot of the animation how the princess is first killed and then rescued how the little rat defeats the big cat etc But what we have found in those animation programs are not only interesting plots but also a big chance for the application of computer science and artificial intelligence techniques As is well known the cost of producing animated movies is very high even with the use of computer graphics techniques Turning a story in text form into an animated movie is a long and complicated procedure We came to the conclusion that many parts of this process could be automated by using artificial intelligence techniques It is actually a challenge and test for machine intelligence So we decided to explore the possibility of a full life cycle automation of computer animation generation By full life cycle we mean the generation process of computer animation from a children's story in natural language text form to the final animated movie It is of course a task of immense difficulty However we decided to try our best and to see how far we could go
