Philosophical Questions in Art Education Dorit Barchana-Lorand,2025-08-21

This book examines the rationale of incorporating the arts in the school curriculum from a philosophical rather than pedagogical perspective. Educational resources are frequently under scrutiny and education policy makers wish to maximize the use of public funds and children's time at school, leaving the arts as a lower priority. To understand the logic behind this, Lorand revisits milestones in the history of the philosophy of art to address core questions in art education: namely, what are the challenges of teaching the arts? And why teach the arts at all? Lorand draws on the work of a broad range of philosophers including Dewey, Eisner, Greene, Hume, Plato, Kant, Langer, Read, and Schiller. The book aims to show how attempts to justify art as a tool for societal and individual improvement fail in advocating art education. Ultimately, she claims that the arts should be taught because children have the right to receive art education. That right stems from the unique nature of art.

The Victorian Art School Ranald Lawrence, 2020-09-02. The Victorian Art School documents the history of the art school in the nineteenth century from its origins in South Kensington to its proliferation through the major industrial centres of Britain. Charles Rennie Mackintosh's Glasgow School of Art, together with earlier examples in Manchester and Birmingham, demonstrate an unprecedented concern for the provision of plentiful light and air amidst the pollution of the Victorian city. As theories of design, education, and local governance converged, they also reveal the struggle of the provincial city for cultural independence from the capital. Examining innovations in the use of new technologies and approaches in the design of these buildings, The Victorian Art School offers a unique and explicitly environmental reading of the Victorian city. It examines how art schools complemented civic Improvement programmes, their contribution to the evolution of art pedagogy, the tensions that arose between the provincial schools and the capital, and the role they would play in reimagining the relationship between art and public life in a rapidly transforming society. The architects of these buildings synthesised the potential of art with the perfection of the internal environment, indelibly shaping the future cultural life of Britain.

Uncovering the History of Children's Drawing and Art Donna Kelly, 2004-01-30. Reactions to children's artwork have varied throughout different times and places. Donna Darling Kelly is calling for a more joyful appreciation of our youngest artists. She presents the dichotomy of the Mirror and Window paradigms. First, she explains the Mirror paradigm, which art educators, psychologists, and art historians use; it is a psychological focus on children's art. It can be defined as the ability of the child to represent images of something other than the object itself. Psychologists who believe in this theory are interested in the self-reflective qualities of children's drawing as they relate to language, intelligence, and cognitive development. The opposing Window paradigm is an aesthetic perspective followed by people working in the arts. The subscribers to this theory see children's art as an objective reproduction of reality that carries all of the meaning with the image. The act of representation is the ultimate goal in this model, not the truth behind the goal. Darling Kelly would like to see the interested parties in the field of children's art placing less emphasis on the prevailing Mirror paradigm and embrace the Window paradigm. Art educators often feel sidelined because subjects such as science and mathematics are requisites, while art remains at best an elective. Art is often classified as a sub discipline concerned primarily with therapeutic areas An unwanted effect of the Mirror paradigm is the stereotypical psychological model of the artist as a hopelessly neurotic or troubled soul This volume is a call to arms for the aesthetic Window paradigm so that art as an autonomous discipline can gain stature in the curriculum of all children s schools Handbook of Research in the Social Foundations of Education Steven Tozer, Bernardo P. Gallegos, Annette Henry, Mary Bushnell Greiner, Paula Groves Price, 2011-07-05 This groundbreaking volume helps readers understand the history evolution and significance of this wide ranging often misunderstood and increasingly important field of study

Culture in Manchester Janet Wolff, 2015-11-01 This book brings together studies of cultural institutions in Manchester from 1850 to the present day giving an unprecedented account of the city s cultural evolution These bring to light the remarkable range of Manchester s contribution to modern cultural life including the role of art education popular theatre religion pleasure gardens clubs and societies The chapters show the resilience and creativity of Manchester s cultural institutions since 1850 challenging any simple narrative of urban decline following the erosion of Lancashire s industrial base at the same time illustrating the range of activities across the social classes This book will appeal to everyone interested in the cultural life of the city of Manchester including cultural historians sociologists and urban geographers as well as general readers with interests in the city It is written by leading international authorities including Viv Gardner Stephen Milner Mike Savage Bill Williams and Janet Wolff Art Education, Its Philosophy and Psychology Thomas Munro, 1956 Art Education Albert William Levi, Ralph Alexander Smith, 1991 Recommending that art be taught as a humanity this volume provides a philosophical rationale for the idea of discipline based art education Levi and Smith discuss topics ranging over both the public and private aspects of art the disciplines of artistic creation art history art criticism and aesthetics and curriculum proposals featuring five phases of aesthetic learning While there is no consensus on how the various components of aesthetic learning should be presented in order to accomplish the goals of discipline based art education the authors point out that progress toward those goals will require that those who design art education programs bring an understanding of the four disciplines to their work The introductory volume of a five volume series this book will appeal to elementary and secondary art teachers those who prepare teachers at the college level and museum educators The History of American Art Education Peter Smith, 1996-07-22 The ideas people and events that developed art education are described and analyzed so that art educators and educators in general will have a better understanding of what has happened and is happening to visual art in the schools Peter Smith raises the issue of art education s inordinate emphasis on Eurocentric art He challenges the often expressed notion that the field of education is the cause of art education s problems and proposes that confused conceptions within the art world are just as much a root of the difficulty No other book in art education history gives such close and analytical attention to the careers of women in the field The materials on Germanic cultural and historical influences are unequalled as is the scholarly treatment of Viktor Lowenfeld probably the most influential single figure in 20th century American art education      Beyond Multicultural Art Education Rachel Mason, Doug Boughton, 1999

Multiculturalism is a term that has been much used in educational texts in recent years. Its usage is frequently taken for granted in the rhetoric of curriculum literature. However, it has recently become clear that there are significant variations of interpretations of multiculturalism in different world regions. This book takes a new and deeper look at the notion of multiculturalism through the lens of art education. In educational terms, art is a unique tool for the investigation of cultural values because it transcends the barrier of language and provides visceral and tacit insights into cultural change. In order to address the educational interpretations and methods of implementing multiculturalism in different regions of the world, this book contains discussion and analysis of perspectives on art education theory and practice from thirteen countries. The authors of each chapter are respected multicultural experts in their geographic locations who are well equipped to provide unique insights into the particular issues of multiculturalism viewed from the perspective of art in educational contexts. The book as a whole provides tools for the conceptual analysis of contemporary notions linked with multiculturalism such as interculturalism, internationalism, and globalisation. It also provides strategies for art teaching in relation to these ideas. While the term multicultural education is problematic, this book presents conceptual frameworks that should assist educators to examine their own teaching on issues of equity and diversity that are central to the multicultural education debate.
