1978 United States. Congress. House. Committee on Armed Services. Subcommittee on Military Personnel, 1978 Crisis in Command Richard A. Gabriel, Paul L. Savage, 1978 Crisis in Command written in the aftermath of the Vietnam War details the mismanagement of the US Army's leadership. Former soldiers Richard A. Gabriel and Paul L. Savage provide documented evidence that the military forces of the United States are ill prepared for war having been weakened by officer corps members who have abandoned honor and integrity to further their individual careers. Bringing in a New Era in Character Education William Damon, 2013-09-01 The educational system in the United States has ended its failed experiment with separating the intellectual from the moral. Schools from K-12 to colleges and universities are increasingly paying attention to students' values and character. But how can we ensure this new era in character education makes the right kind of difference to young people? What obstacles in our current educational system must we overcome and what new opportunities can we create? This anthology offers unique perspectives on what is needed to make character education an effective, lasting part of our educational agenda. Each chapter points out the directions that character education must take today and offers strategies essential for progress. The expert contributors reveal why relativism has threatened the moral development of young people in our time and how we can pass core values down to new generations of students in ways that will elevate their conduct and their life goals. And they show the critical importance of reestablishing student morality and character as targets of higher education's central mission. Perhaps most important, they clarify the necessity of authority in any moral education endeavor and show how it is a powerful force for developing personal freedom and building character. The Honours Board, a Novel Pamela Hansford Johnson, 1970 Dress Gray Lucian K. Truscott, 2014-07-01 This New York Times bestselling novel about a crime and cover up at West Point offers a compelling portrait of the military academy. The New York Times' Ry Slaughter is a young cadet at the United States Military Academy walking punishment tours in May 1968 when he hears that the body of a plebe has been found floating in Lake Popolopen. Supposedly it was an accident, but it's not long before Slaughter learns details about the autopsy suggesting a much darker story. Slaughter's personal quest to uncover the truth and the authorities' efforts to keep it from him will reveal both heroes and villains within the Long Gray Line. In this frightening novel about a secret cult headquartered on the Hudson behind a stone facade, the author mounts an attack on his alma mater with brilliance and fury. Cruikshank,2007-09-01 Founded in 1937 the U S Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point New York has trained more than 20 000 professional mariners and in the process has weathered many turbulent times In Peace and War draws on extensive research including archival work and interviews with past and present day administrators alumni and current midshipmen to document the Academy s evolution from its beginnings to the present This balanced and comprehensive work details the vision and contributions of determined leaders both at Kings Point and in Washington who shaped the Academy It describes the evolution of the U S merchant marine and explains how a tragic fire aboard the passenger ship SS Morro Castle off the coast of New Jersey in which the shameful behavior of the ship s crew caused the unnecessary deaths of many passengers led to the passage of the Merchant Marine Act in 1936 which paved the way for the Academy It details how Kings Point has adjusted its training and priorities to meet the evolving needs of the nation For example visual signaling training was added to the curriculum in response to the growing threat from German subs in the months leading up to World War II In June 1940 Cadet William O Reilly s frantic signaling from the SS Washington a vessel carrying more than 1 700 refugees averted its sinking by a hostile submarine From its inception Kings Point has used the high seas as a campus with its students shipping out for a full year on commercial vessels to receive a thorough grounding in practical seamanship In wartime this has meant that Kings Point cadets often have found themselves in harm s way and some have paid the ultimate price Between 1942 and 1945 for example 142 Kings Point cadets were lost in action and countless others survived attacks all around the world At other times the conflict has been closer to home The book also describes the Academy s invaluable service after 9 11 when Kings Point personnel and vessels worked around the clock to ferry fire fighters and rescue personnel to and from nearby Ground Zero in Lower Manhattan Using compelling examples In Peace and War conveys the educational experience at the Academy today including the regiment of midshipmen and the required Sea Year both of which sharply distinguish Kings Point from almost all other educational institutions It uses the stories of ten graduates in Norfolk Virginia to explain what today s merchant marine is and to illustrate the wide range of careers and leadership roles for which the Academy prepares its students Finally the book details the dedication of the many alumni and other supporters who are committed to continuing Kings Point s contributions to the nation and the maritime industry and to preserving the proud traditions of this venerable institution
