

The background of the entire page is a painting of a forest scene. Two women, dressed in late 19th-century attire, stand on a dirt path in the lower-left foreground. The woman on the left wears a long, dark dress and a wide-brimmed hat. The woman on the right wears a blue dress and a similar hat. They appear to be in conversation. The forest is dense with tall, slender trees, their leaves in various shades of green and yellow, suggesting an autumn setting. The lighting is soft, filtering through the canopy. The overall style is that of a 19th-century landscape painting.

The House of the Singing Winds Rachel Berenson Perry, Selma Neubacher Steele, Theodore L. Steele, Wilbur David Peat, 2016 T C Steele's appreciation of nature combined with his intelligence and capacity for concentrated study raised his works to an extraordinary level. This story of his life and work in the late 19th and early 20th centuries is an indispensable chapter in the art and cultural history of Indiana, the Midwest, and the nation. This revised edition of the 1966 classic includes 74 full color Steele paintings from the Indiana State Museum and Historic Sites, the Indiana University Museum of Art, and private collectors from around the state. These paintings, many of which have never been published, demonstrate the importance of Steele to the art world in his time and in ours. The House of the Singing Winds Selma N. Steele, 1966
