Essays in the History of Canadian Law, Volume XII Lori Chambers,Joan Sangster,2023-10-02 Drawing on engaging case studies Essays in the History of Canadian Law brings the law to life The contributors to this collection provide rich historical and social context for each case unravelling the process of legal decision making and explaining the impact of the law on the people involved in legal disputes Examining the law not simply as legislation and institutions but as discourse practice symbols rhetoric and language the book s chapters show the law as both oppressive and constraining and as a point of contention and means of resistance This collection presents new approaches and concerns as well as re examinations of existing themes with new evidence and modes of storytelling Contributors cover many legal thematic areas from criminal to labour civil administrative and human rights law spanning English and French Canada and ranging from the mid eighteenth century to the late twentieth century The legal cases vary from precedent setting cases to lesser known ones from those driven by one woman s quest for personal justice to others in which state actors dominate Bringing to light how the people embroiled in these cases interacted with the legal system the book reveals the ramifications of a legal system characterized by multiple layers of inequality

Canada's Residential Schools: The History, Part 1, Origins to 1939 Commission de vérité et réconciliation du Canada,2016-01-01 Between 1867 and 2000 the Canadian government sent over 150 000 Aboriginal children to residential schools across the country Government officials and missionaries agreed that in order to civilize and Christianize Aboriginal children it was necessary to separate them from their parents and their home communities For children life in these schools was lonely and alien Discipline was harsh and daily life was highly regimented Aboriginal languages and cultures were denigrated and suppressed Education and technical training too often gave way to the drudgery of doing the chores necessary to make the schools self sustaining Child neglect was institutionalized and the lack of supervision created situations where students were prey to sexual and physical abusers Legal action by the schools former students led to the creation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada in 2008 The product of over six years of research the Commission s final report outlines the history and legacy of the schools and charts a pathway towards reconciliation Canada s Residential Schools The History Part 1 Origins to 1939 places Canada s residential school system in the historical context of European campaigns to colonize and convert Indigenous people throughout the world In post Confederation Canada the government adopted what amounted to a policy of cultural genocide suppressing spiritual practices disrupting traditional economies and imposing new forms of government Residential schooling quickly became a central element in this policy The destructive intent of the schools was compounded by chronic underfunding and ongoing conflict between the federal government and the church missionary societies that had been given responsibility for their day to day operation A failure of leadership and resources meant that the schools failed to control the tuberculosis crisis that gripped the schools for much of this period Alarmed by high death rates Aboriginal parents often refused to send their children to the schools leading the government adopt ever more coercive attendance regulations While parents became subject to ever more punitive regulations the government did little to regulate discipline diet fire safety or sanitation at the schools By the period s end the government was presiding over a nation wide series of firetraps that had no clear educational goals and were economically dependent on the unpaid labour of underfed and often sickly children Canada's Residential Schools: The History, Part 2, 1939 to 2000 Commission de vérité et réconciliation du Canada,2016-01-01 Between 1867 and 2000 the Canadian government sent over 150 000 Aboriginal children to residential schools across the country Government officials and missionaries agreed that in order to civilize and Christianize Aboriginal children it was necessary to separate them from their parents and their home communities For children life in these schools was lonely and alien Discipline was harsh and daily life was highly regimented Aboriginal languages and cultures were denigrated and suppressed Education and technical training too often gave way to the drudgery of doing the chores necessary to make the schools self sustaining Child neglect was institutionalized and the lack of supervision created situations where students were prey to sexual and physical abusers Legal action by the schools former students led to the creation of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission of Canada in 2008 The product of over six years of research the Commission s final report outlines the history and legacy of the schools and charts a pathway towards reconciliation Canada s Residential Schools The History Part 2 1939 to 2000 carries the story of the residential school system from the end of the Great Depression to the closing of the last remaining schools in the late 1990s It demonstrates that the underfunding and unsafe living conditions that characterized the early history of the schools continued into an era of unprecedented growth and prosperity for most Canadians A miserly funding formula meant that into the late 1950s school meals fell short of the Canada Food Rules Overcrowding poor sanitation and a failure to adhere to fire safety rules were common problems throughout this period While government officials had come to view the schools as costly and inefficient the churches were reluctant to countenance their closure It was not until the late 1960s that the federal government finally wrested control of the system away from the churches Government plans to turn First Nations education over to the provinces met with opposition from Aboriginal organizations that were seeking Indian Control of Indian Education Following parent led occupation of a school in Alberta many of the remaining schools came under Aboriginal administration The closing of the schools coincided with a growing number of convictions of former staff members on charges of sexually abusing students These trials revealed the degree to which sexual abuse at the schools had been covered up in the past Former students who came to refer to themselves as Survivors established regional and national organizations and provided much of the leadership for the campaign that led to the federal government issuing in 2008 an apology to the former students and their families

Agricultural History Gregory P. Marchildon, 2011 The eighteen essays selected for this volume of the History of the Prairie West Series all focus on the agricultural history of the Canadian Plains They cover a detailed survey of First Nations agricultural practices agriculture during the fur trade era and the history of ranching and the evolution as fenced in farm settlements supplanted the open range from publisher

Calgary's Grand Story Donald B. Smith, 2005 Calgary was a boomtown of 50 000 people in 1912 the year the Lougheed Building and the adjacent Grand Theatre were built Through the great days of Vaudeville and classic cinema through the Depression two world wars and the oil and gas boom the Lougheed and the Grand were cornerstones of downtown Calgary As the city grew up around them questions about their future arose Complemented by over 140 historical images Calgary's Grand Story is a fascinating tribute to the Lougheed and the Grand and celebrates their unrivalled position in the city's political economic and cultural history

The History of the Gaelic Athletic Association in Canada John O'Flynn, 2008-04 Canada's embrace of Gaelic games has provided wonderful memories for those of the Irish Canadian community and has created an opportunity for all to discover an exciting facet of Ireland's culture

Making Medicare Gregory Marchildon, 2012-11-23 The Canadian health care system is so indisputably tied to our national identity that its founder Tommy Douglas was voted the greatest Canadian of all time in a CBC television contest However very little has been written to date on how Medicare as we know it was developed and implemented This collection fills a serious gap in the existing literature by providing a comprehensive policy history of Medicare in Canada Making Medicare features explorations of the experiments that predated the federal government's decision to implement the Saskatchewan health care model from Newfoundland's cottage hospital system to Bennetcare in British Columbia It also includes essays by key individuals including health practitioners and two premiers who played a role in the implementation of Medicare and the landmark Royal Commission on Health Services Along with political scientists policy specialists medical historians and health practitioners this collection will appeal to anyone interested in the history and legacy of one of Canada's most visible and centrally important institutions

The Oxford Handbook of the History of Eugenics Alison Bashford, Philippa Levine, 2010-09-24 Eugenic thought and practice swept the world from the late nineteenth to the mid twentieth century in a remarkable transnational phenomenon that informed social and scientific policy across the political spectrum from liberal welfare measures in emerging social democratic states to feminist ambitions for birth control to public health campaigns to totalitarian dreams of the perfectibility of man This book dispels for uninitiated readers the automatic and apparently exclusive link between eugenics and the Holocaust the popularity of eugenics in Japan for example comes as a surprise It is the first world history of eugenics and an indispensable core text for both teaching and research in what has become a sprawling but ever more important field

Secondary Sources in the History of Canadian Medicine Charles G. Roland, 2006-01-01 This work is a bibliography of secondary sources
