Prehistoric Humans in Film and Television Michael Klossner, 2015-01-09 From the early days of the movies cavemen have been a popular subject for filmmakers not surprisingly since the birth of cinema occurred only a few decades after the earliest scientific studies of prehistoric man. Filmmakers however were not constrained by the emerging science; instead they most often took a comedic look at prehistory, a trend that continued throughout the 20th century. Prehistoric humans also populated adventure fantasy films with the original One Million B.C. 1940 leading the charge. Documentaries were also made but it was not until the 1970s that accurate film accounts of prehistoric humans finally emerged. This exhaustive work provides detailed accounts of 581 film and television productions that feature depictions of human prehistory. Included are dramas and comedies set in human prehistory, documentaries and films and television shows in which prehistoric people somehow exist in historical periods from the advent of civilization up to the present or in extraterrestrial settings. Each entry includes full filmographic data including year of release, running time, production personnel, cast information, and format. A description of each film provides background on the prehistoric elements. Contemporary critical commentary is included for many of the works.

Bazin at Work Andre Bazin, 2014-04-04. Bazin's impact on film art as theorist and critic is considered to be greater than that of any single director, actor, or producer. He is credited with almost single-handedly establishing the study of film as an accepted intellectual pursuit as well as with being the spiritual father of the French New Wave. Bazin at Work is the first English collection of disparate Bazin writings since the appearance of the second volume of What Is Cinema in 1971. It includes work from Cahiers le cinema, which he founded and which is the most influential single critical periodical in the history of the cinema, and Esprit. He addresses filmmakers including Rossellini, Eisenstein, Pagnol, and Capra, and well-known films including La Strada, Citizen Kane, Scarface, and The Bridge on the River Kwai.

Off-White Hollywood Diane Negra, 2001-09-20. Off-White Hollywood investigates how the ethnicity of white European American actresses has played a key role in the mythology of American identity and nation building. Negra focuses on key stars of the silent: Colleen Moore and Pola Negri; classical: Sonja Henie and Hedy Lamarr; and post-classical eras: Marisa Tomei and Cher, to demonstrate how each star illuminates aspects of ethnicity, gender, consumerism, and class at work in American culture.

The Europe of 1500-1815 on Film and Television Michael Klossner, 2002. The geographic scope of this work is all of Europe: European Russia, Great Britain, Ireland, Iceland, the Mediterranean Islands such as Sicily and Corsica, the Caucasus area north of Turkey, including territory now in the new republics of Armenia, Georgia, and Azerbaijan, and the Balkans and Greece. There are entries for shorts, animation, silents, television series, films both theatrical and made for television, releases, miniseries, epics, war films, dramas, literary adaptations, comedies, horrors, mysteries, musical comedies, and operettas. Complete entries provide such particulars as the title, date, alternate title, and those based on his life are included. Opera and ballet films are omitted but musical comedy and operetta films are included, as are silent films based on operas. Fairy tales are out but folkloric works are in. Documentaries are not included. Subject places, periods, events, and historical figures, and name indexes allow for easy reference.
