Dail,Shelbie Witte,Steven T. Bickmore,2018-05-04 Technology and multimodal texts must be included as part of the literacies we teach in 21st century schools Implementing multiple modes of literacy requires that teachers shift their focus toward multiple genres and modes of text This shift to the visual requires that teachers consider how students read images in the classroom address visual literacy and engage students in constructing visual texts Students already live and communicate in a virtual world connected by expansive networks and many also read young adult literature Given this researchers and practitioners in the field examine ways texts written for students can be combined with digital tools to craft more critical conversations around literary response and digital media consumption and production This book explores ways adolescents read engage and construct meaning within the world around them and examines how teachers can leverage the use of young adult literature with digital practices within their classrooms Authenticity and How We Fake It Aaron Duplantier,2016-07-21 Consumers today are invested in reality based media such as reality television and social media which in theory draw content from somewhere off screen in our lived experience This is seen as more authentic than the predominantly fictional media of the latter half of the 20th century Yet much of reality TV and social media is known by both consumers and creators of content to be scripted or contrived Addressing this problem deepens consumer engagement as authenticity becomes a preoccupation driving the extension of a new media ethic of truth and savvy This dynamic is key to understanding consumers changing attitudes about the media they value Reality TV Facebook and YouTube have created a paradigm shift in the media landscape Analyzing these three established platforms all of which have a stake in the conversation about authenticity this book sheds light on the complicated behaviors and choices of media consumers
